Tree cuts upset neighbors

By Lisa Boudreau

When Ken and Ellen Davidson gave permission to tree crews hired by Massachusetts Electric to enter their property at 140 Chestnut St. to trim pine branches near wires, they never expected so much foliage to be removed.

The couple knew tree crews were doing work in their neighborhood, so when an orange card left at their door requested permission to trim branches, they checked the "yes" box and included a note asking the workers to also remove three small, unwanted maple trees.

Central St. bridge to re-open; Stevens St. bridge to close

By Don Staruk

The Central Street bridge over the Shawshen River is nearly complete and could be re-opened late this week or early next week, according to Brian Moore, assistant town engineer.

"It might be the end of the week. It might be next week," Mr. Moore said Tuesday. "There's still some final paving to be done, and a guardrail, and final testing of utility lines across the bridge. I really can't say. It all depends on how the testing goes."

The old steel-grate bridge and supporting abutments have been completely replaced with a steel and cement bridge with a paved surface.

As soon as the work is completed on the Central Street bridge, workers will move the Jersey barriers and other construction equipment over to Stevens Street and begin work on replacing that bridge. The Stevens Street bridge will be closed when work there begins, and will remain closed until the work is completed, probably sometime in October, according to Mr. Moore.

Three teachers who are retiring have 80-plus combined years of experience

By Lisa Boudreau

Earlier this week, children at Bancroft Elementary School said goodbye to three teachers who will not return in the fall. The three retiring teachers - Elizabeth Cahoon, Mark K. Hervol and Lou Hopley - have more than 80 years of teaching experience among them, 70 of which are in the Andover public school system.

Ms. Cahoon taught fourth grade and Ms. Hervol and Ms. Hopley both taught third grade. The three recently were honored by their colleagues, parents and students at a reception held at the school.

Mary K. Hervol

At the reception, Ms. Hervol recited a poem she wrote, recounting her fond memories of Bancroft. Her relationship with Bancroft School began even before the school was built - when the building was just an idea in the architect's mind.

Her husband, Emil Hervol, is a structural engineer and a friend of Bill Warner, the man who designed Bancroft School.

In the poem, Ms. Hervol wrote how she vividly remembers the day Mr. Warner came to her house to show her husband preliminary sketches for the building. The sketches were drawn on the back of an envelope.

Bancroft School was completed almost 25 years ago, in 1969. To mark that occasion, Ms. Hervol invited Mr. Warner to visit her class several weeks ago.

"One of the students asked him how he and the other architects came up with the idea for such an unusual building. He told them that he and the other grown men sat down on the floor and began putting building blocks together until they came up with the

Historical Society board elects Barbara Thibault as new director

By Lisa Boudreau

Barbara Thibault, the director of education for Andover Historical Society for the past eight years, was unanimously chosen by the society's board of directors last week to be the new director. She will replace Charlotte Smith, the former director/curator, who left last month to take a position at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum in Boston.

"Barbara has been very successful in expanding the scope of the historical society's education programs," said Jim Batchelder, president of the board of directors.

"She's been successful in fighting the image that the society is a closed club where you have to be a member to get in," he said.

Many people don't know that the historical society's Amos Blanchard House at 97 Main St. is an accredited museum and that it includes a research library, he said.

Selectmen hike water rates 8 percent

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night approved a request by Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, to increase water rates by 8 percent effective Aug. 1.

Water prices will go from $2.33 to $2.52 per 100 cubic feet. The annual bill for the average residence will go up about $22, according to Tony Torrisi, budget and finance director.

Emergency sales of water to other towns, such as North Reading, will go from $2.80 to $3.02 per 100 cubic feet.

Earlier this year, Mr. Stapczynski and Mr. Torrisi estimated an even greater increase in fiscal 1994 because of a 17- to 18-percent drop in water and sewer use.

But a lower sewer assessment than expected by the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District and other factors made a sewer increase unnecessary at this time.

Water use, which was down 18 percent in January, is now only down 8 to 10 percent. But that drop and an aggressive capital improvement program to upgrade water lines are the reason for the water increase now, according to Mr. Torrisi.

The town has tried to maintain self-sufficient water and sewer departments and this increase will allow that effort to continue. The 8 percent hike should carry the town through fiscal '94, Mr. Torrisi said.

The last sewer increase was established four years ago and the last water increase was for fiscal '92.

The 8 percent hike will raise about $330,000 more revenue, covering what otherwise would be a roughly $300,000 projected budget deficit.

Selectmen asked Mr. Stapczynski if everything was being done to cut costs and maximize revenues at the water department, and were assured that every effort was being made to operate the service as efficiently as possible. Mr. Torrisi also said that the emergency sales of water bring in about a $500,000 in revenue each year.

The rate hike was approved 3-1 with Chairman William Downs voting in opposition.

The Home of America

In other news of the selectmen, the board approved a request by James D. Doherty, town moderator, for the town's 350 Anniversary Committee to use in promotional materials the fact that the song America was written in town. The anniversary celebration is coming up in 1996.

The words to America were written in 1832 by the Rev. Samuel Smith while he was staying at America House, 147 Main St., on the campus of Phillips Academy.

Mr. Doherty, making the request to the board on behalf of the 350th Committee, said the slogan would be used on stationary and other promotional materials.

"We're the only community that's got it, and I think we ought to make use of it," Mr. Doherty said.

The four selectmen at the meeting (Gerald Silverman was absent) were all in favor of the proposal, although Mr. Downs clarified that the words were written to German sheet music.

"Were you there?" Selectman James Barenboim questioned his elder.

"I love it," Selectman Larry Larsen said.

The proposal was approved unanimously. AHS athletics honored

Mr. Stapczynski told the board that the Andover High School athletic program has been named the recipient of the 1993 Ernest Dalton Award by The Boston Globe.

The prestigious award is presented annually to the school that best exemplifies high school athletics. Although it has been named to the top 10 for the award in the past, Andover had never won the award until this year. The high school this year had the best win/loss record in the state for all inter-scholastic sports, boys and girls. [More complete story coming next week.]

A reception celebrating the award was held Tuesday afternoon at Phillips Academy's Log Cabin on Highland Street.

NEWS IN BRIEF

AHS '67 plans a reunion

Members of Andover High School class of 1967 are looking for classmates who are interested in attending a 25th-plus-one-year reunion. Members of that class who have not been contacted should call Dan Ferris at 685-8789 or John Gaudet at 686-8186.

Blood drive set for July 6

An Andover community summer blood drive will be held Tuesday, July 6, from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

For more information or an appointment, call Lisa Landon at 1-800-258-0025, Ext. 2091.

Local bridge named for vets

Gov. William Weld signed into law legislation that designated the bridge over Route 125 on Route 28 as the Andover Vietnam Veterans Memorial Bridge. The legislation was sponsored by Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover.

"I was approached by a number of veterans from Andover who wanted to acknowledge the service and sacrifice of the men and women who served in the Vietnam War. This will serve as a permanent reminder of their heroic service to our great country," said Rep. Coon.

PA crew wins two gold medals

By Alix Driscoll

Phillips Academy's women's crew team won two gold medals at national races in junior fours and eights competition last week in the US National Championship Regatta in Indianapolis.

Coached by John Lin, the women's varsity coach, the women beat the best of high school rowing teams from all over the country. The Phillips women's varsity crew has competed for several years in the national competition, gaining medals each time. However, these are the team's first gold medals.

Competing for Phillips Academy on both boats was junior Leah Henderson, the daughter of Beverly and Maurice Henderson of Phillips Academy. The boats were coxed by Tim Kay and both won with open water between them and the next boat.

According to rower Alison Crawford of North Andover, the conditions for the races were strong winds with a tornado watch in effect. She said the team rowing the four had only been in the boat three times and that was prior to each race. They beat teams rowing fours who had been practicing together for several months.

Before the final race, male coxswain Tim Kay heard the coach from Augusta Rowing Club of Augusta, Ga., say to his rowers, "It's going to be tough competition. I want you to watch Phillips Academy. They can walk right through you." They did.

Don Pattullo named officer of year

By Don Staruk

Andover Police Detective Donald H. Pattullo, a 13-year veteran of the force, was presented the David L. Nicoll Award for being named the department's officer of the year at the policemen's relief association annual ball Friday, June 18, at the Andover Marriott.

Detective Pattullo became a patrolman in 1980 and was named to detectives in 1987. He has worked with Detective David Grant for the last six years.

"He has to be one of the most capable investigators in the area. There's no doubt about it," Detective Grant said of his partner.

What's doing for the 4th & 5th?

The Fourth of July falls on a Sunday this year, so it will be business as usual at the Townsmen Monday, July 5, and the paper will not have early deadlines for news or ads.

However, some businesses close around the holiday. Town offices will be closed Monday, July 5, because that is the day the town will hold its July 4 celebration and fireworks.

Liquor stores will be closed Sunday, July 4, and open Monday, July 5. Some banks will be closed Saturday, July 3, and Monday, July 5, so customers are advised to check with their own bank. Most grocery stores will open regular hours July 4 and 5.

Memorial Hall Library is closed Monday, July 5. [The library is operating on summer hours now: It's open 9-9 Monday-Thursday, 9-5:30 Friday, and closed Saturday and Sunday.]

Many downtown stores will be open Monday, July 5. [Lt. Richard Enos of the police department reports that businesses that wish to be open Monday must put that request in writing and bring it to the police chief and "it will be approved."] assigned the most difficult and important cases, according to Detective Grant.

"Everything he's assigned to he just bites right into, and usually he's successful," Detective Grant said.

Detective Grant pointed out a few of the tough cases his partner has been involved in, including the baby abandonment case in town a couple years ago, several bank robberies and many housebreaks in Andover and several other nearby communities.

"The town is very, very lucky to have someone of his caliber working for it. When it comes to investigative skills, he's the best," Detective Grant said.

The David L. Nicoll Award is named for the former chief. Its recipient is chosen by the superior officers, including sergeants and lieutenants, using a secret ballot.

Service in the family

Detective Pattullo started at the police department as a dispatcher in April of 1974. He earned his bachelor's degree in law enforcement from Boston State College in 1976, became a reserve officer in 1978 and a patrolman on March 17, 1980. He was named to detectives in 1987.

Public service and policing run in the detective's family. Detective Pattullo is the son of Lt. Hector Pattullo, who retired in 1990 after 30 years on the Andover police force. One brother, Brian, is a sergeant in the department and another, Cliff, is an Andover firefighter.

Rape suspect held in jail

By Don Staruk

Rape suspect David Walker, 36, of 23 Strawberry Hill Road, was led into the Andover police station after his arrest on Wednesday afternoon, June 23, in connection with the home invasion on Strawberry Hill Road on Saturday, June 19.

Mr. Walker was arraigned in Lawrence District Court on charges of kidnapping, aggravated rape, three counts of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (a knife, wooden fork and telephone cord), larceny of a motor vehicle, larceny of property over $250, malicious destruction of property over $250, and burglary assault in a dwelling. He is being held at the Essex County House of Correction in Middleton on $200,000 cash bail or $1 million double surety, although his attorney is seeking a bail reduction, according to police. Mr. Walker is scheduled for a probable cause hearing in Lawrence District Court on July 6.

Mr. Walker is one of two men charged with the June 19 home invasion in which the home owner, a 64-year-old acquaintance of Mr. Walker's mother, allegedly was kidnapped, robbed and sexually assaulted before she escaped.

Kurt V. Harnish, 33, of 114 Farnham St., Lawrence, was arrested riding a stolen bicycle on Lowell Street shortly after the incident and is accused of being an accessory to the crime. He is charged with burglary, assault and battery in a dwelling, kidnapping, two counts of larceny of property over $250, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (knife), indecent assault and battery on a person over 14, assault with intent to rape and larceny of a motor vehicle. He was arraigned in Lawrence District Court Monday, June 21, and ordered held in Middleton on $10,000 bail.

Mr. Walker was arrested

Wednesday morning in Somerville after Andover police received a tip that he was at a party in that town and was bragging about the home invasion.

Andover police contacted Somerville, but the suspect had left, allegedly to buy crack cocaine in Lawrence, when police went to the address. Somerville police went back to the address later Wednesday morning and found the victim's car, which Mr. Walker had allegedly stolen, and then found Mr. Walker. Mr. Walker had only $1 left of the more than $1,000 he is accused of taking from the victim, according to reports.

Woman's body found in the river

By Don Staruk

The body of an Andover woman was found in the Shawsheen River beside Shawsheen Plaza Sunday morning, an apparent drowning victim.

The body of Helen Locke, 73, of 1 Elm Court, was found at 11:43 a.m. by a Washington Park resident who was walking near the river. The body was half submerged in about 18 inches of water on the plaza side of the river, close to Whyte's Cleaners, according to Andover Detective David Grant.

Ms. Locke's car was found parked behind the plaza buildings. Detective Grant would not speculate on the cause of death. He said no foul play was involved but that an autopsy was scheduled.

"It's under investigation," Detective Grant said.

Ms. Locke's husband, George Locke, had reported her missing, the detective said. [A complete obituary is on page 27.]

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

6-year-old boy saved

By Don Staruk

A 6-year-old Andover boy was rescued from the bottom of a swimming pool and revived by a guest using CPR during a pool party at a home on Andover Street Sunday afternoon.

Devin McArthur, son of Bruce and Kathleen McArthur of 18 Argyle St., was playing in the pool at the home of James Peck, at 270 Andover St., with 10 to 12 other children when the accident occurred at 2:43 p.m., according to police reports.

Kathleen Stevens, of Andover, and Patrice

Minton, of 8 Ferndale Drive, were with the children but neither had noticed anything wrong until one boy told Ms. Stevens that Devin was on the bottom of the pool.

Ms. Stevens and Ms. Minton dove in and pulled the unconscious boy out.

Dr. Joanne Borland, of 48 Phillips St., a pediatrician, used CPR to revive the victim.

Dave Nichols, an Andover physical education teacher who also knows CPR, assisted Dr. Borland.

Devin was taken to Lawrence General

Hospital and transferred to the Floating Hospital for Children at New England Medical Center in Boston, where he was listed in stable and satisfactory condition Tuesday afternoon.

PRIVATE MORTGAGE INSURANCE

If your down payment is less than 20 percent of your new home's cost, your lender will probably require you to purchase private mortgage insurance ("PMI"). This is to protect the lender in case you default on the loan.

You pay for this insurance in two ways. There is a one time charge at settlement, which can vary from lender to lender. It is less than 10 percent, and about 1/2 percent of the loan amount if your down payment is between 10 percent and 20 percent of the sale price. You also pay a monthly charge on each mortgage payment until your loan balance is reduced to less than 80 percent of the value of your house.

Your mortgage application must be approved by both the lender and the PMI company. If you are only marginally qualified, this could delay or even prevent approval of the loan. If you are buying a home with a small down payment, discuss PMI costs with each lender that you contact. Smart comparison shopping may save you money!

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Minuteman Realty. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 2 Elm Square.

BUSINESS

William Downs, left, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, has some words of advice for Judith and John Avery on Mr. Avery's retirement from his position as town engineer for the past 29 years. Selectmen hosted a reception Monday evening at town offices prior to their meeting in honor of the 20 employees who took the early retirement option offered by the town.

Don Marshall, left, chats with Mary and Frank Kolodgy. Ms. Kolodgy is retiring from the school department, where she has worked in the cafeterias for the past 21 years.

Andover Fire Chief Harold Hayes, left, checks on the retirement plans of Ann Salter and her husband, former town clerk Elden Salter, during Monday night's reception. Ms. Salter retired as food services director for the schools after 31 years.

Ann Salter and Candace Hall, personnel director for the town, chat during Monday night's reception honoring 20 employees who retired this week under the early retirement program. The 20 represented a total of 463 years of service to the town.

20 take early retirement

By Don Staruk

Twenty town employees, with a combined total of 463 years and seven months of service to the town, took advantage of the early retirement incentive program approved at April Town Meeting and retired this week.

The retirees include: Robert Hinckley, firefighter at Central Station (32 years); John Avery, town engineer (29 1/2 years); Edward Reming, highway foreman; Frederick Jaeschke, director of municipal maintenance; Ann Salter, cafeteria secretary (31 years); Joyce Tucker, school cafeteria manager (30 years); Myron Muise, treasurer/collector; Nancy Jacobson, Memorial Hall Library director (26 years); Shirley Petzold, school cafeteria manager; Mavis Cox, school secretary (24 1/2 years); Emile Trembley, school custodian; Priscilla Tynning, school cafeteria baker; Nancy Catalano, school secretary; Selma Flieder, facilities coordinator; Jeanette Doňovan, school cafeteria manager;

Mary Kolodgy, school cafeteria manager (24 years); Salvatore DeSalvo, building inspector; Rita Marshall, crossing guard (20 years); Joseph Misenti, heavy equipment operator; and Mary White, purchasing clerk (16 years).

The number of years worked for each retiree was not immediately available.

The retirements took effect June 24, although some employees left earlier to use up vacation days, and others will stay on part time to train their replacements.

The early retirement option was offered by the town to cut costs. The program will save the town about $250,000 in the fiscal '94 budget, through lower salaries for replacements, less vacation time and the higher pension fund contributions. At least one position, that of Fred Jaeschke as director of municipal maintenance, will not be filled due to reorganization. The savings to the town will diminish each year until it levels off in about five years.

Town Accountant Rodney Smith talks with Nancy Jacobson, who retired this week from her position as director of Memorial Hall Library. She is a 26-year town employee.

Raspberries' owner to open at Brickstone

By Alix Driscoll

Dana Wilson, the owner of Raspberries Eatery on Main Street, will open a second Raspberries, this one at Brickstone Square, on Aug. 1.

The restaurant will be in the tallest Brickstone building, number 300 Brickstone. It will be open just to people who work at the site, not to the general public. His new eatery will be on the fifth floor in the third building, commonly called "the tower."

Marty Spagat, president of Brickstone Properties, said people working at Brickstone were ordering out from Raspberries on Main Street, so it made sense to approach Mr. Wilson to install a corporate cafeteria at the site.

"It is a great deal for me," said Mr. Wilson. It's a virtual monopoly. There is only one other food service (there), in another building."

In addition, Mr. Wilson explained, it is natural for him to set up shop in the Brickstone complex.

He already has some customers there, such as the employees of Northeast Document Conservation Center, the Network and John Hancock. Mr. Wilson said he expects to double the number of customers he serves by opening at Brickstone.

For the time being, Mr. Wilson will prepare the food for Brickstone at his Main Street facility, and bring it to Brickstone where it will be kept warm.

Mr. Spagat said he is not sure how much space the Raspberries at Brickstone will occupy, and he is not sure if it will remain in the space it will first go into on the fifth floor.

Raspberries of Main Street stays

Mr. Wilson plans to keep his restaurant at 46 Main Street. "It is our little hole in the wall; it is

Cosmo Camelio to head United Way drive

Cosmo R. Camelio, senior vice president with Fruedenberg Nonwovens in Lowell, has been named campaign chairman for the United Way of Merrimack Valley's 1993-'94 annual campaign.

Mr. Camelio is a member of the United Way of Merrimack Valley board of directors and served as Greater Lowell Area chairman during last year's campaign. He was also area chairman for the Little Rock United Way and coordinated United Way drives at Fruedenberg's Lowell and Chelmsford facilities.

He is a past president and board member of the Little Rock Boys.

"The United Way does a tremendous job of reaching the largest number of people in need and it does it, I'm convinced, in the most efficient manner," Mr. Camelio said. "I believe that those of us in the business community have an obligation to give something back to the communities we work in. The United Way provides a great way to accomplish this."

Mr. Camelio will oversee fund-raising activities throughout the Merrimack Valley, assisted by five area chairman and hundreds of volunteers who help raise needed dollars each year.

The 1993-'94 campaign will kick off in September. The United Way of Merrimack Valley serves 34 communities in northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

our identity," he said.

Mr. Wilson opened his downtown Raspberries seven years ago and he employs 12 people there.

Mr. Wilson's plans for the Brickstone site are for a 40-seat restaurant. He will offer breakfast and lunch, and continue to do corporate catering, Monday through Friday. Tiffany Todd will be the manager and three new employees will be hired.

Mr. Wilson is waiting for approval from the Health Department and he has worked closely with the building inspector and landlord. He said he went looking for this opportunity to open another restaurant.

Society elects Barbara Thibault

"Barbara will continue to do a great job letting people know all about us," Mr. Batchelder said.

Ms. Thibault said her new post will combine the administrative duties of the past director along with the education and membership outreach work she has done in the past. The board plans to hire another full-time employee to handle the historical society's collections and exhibits, said Mr. Batchelder. There are currently two full-time employees - Ms. Thibault and Peg Hughes, who is assistant to the director.

"The responsibility I have before me," said Ms. Thibault, "is to keep up the momentum of the projects and programs that were set up before" I became the new director.

She said her goals include expanding the historical society's outreach programs to schools and community groups, and attracting new members. Currently the AHS has approximately 550 members.

Another of Ms. Thibault's goals is to identify some of the unknown photographs in the historical society's collection of more than 17,000 pictures. She studied photo preservation and identifying techniques at the International Museum of Photography at the former home of photography pioneer, George Eastman in Rochester, N.Y.

There she learned how recognizing different types of paper and printing techniques help identify the dates of photos.

She plans to work with other staff members and volunteers to choose 250 photographs that best depict how Andover has changed during the past 100 years. Those photos will be included in a book the Historical Society plans to publish in 1996 to commemorate the town's 350th anniversary.

Barbara Thibault has been named director of the Historical Society.

Ms. Thibault has a bachelor's degree in history from the University of Massachusetts in Boston and a master's degree in preservation and diploma in museum studies, both from Boston University. The responsibility for the preservation, display and expansion of the Historical Society's collections will go to the new curator of collection and registrar. The search for a new curator of collections /registrar will begin this week when the AHS board of directors begins advertising the position. A search committee will review the applications during the summer. Mr. Batchelder said the directors hope to hire a new curator by October.

Younger students in Andover celebrate the end of the school year

Shawsheen School's Extended Day (SHED) program has 78 kindergartners enrolled and its Kid's Club extended day program for grades one through five has 86 students. The Andover School of Montessori currently serves 75 preschoolers. Both schools held year-end parties recently for students, families and staff. At the SHED party, picking out their favorite cupcakes from the huge selection shown at right are Emily Benham, left, and Hillary Nadworny. ►

At the SHED and Kid's Club party, Jesse Ciccone gets a watermelon buffet ready last Friday for the annual end-of-the-year event.

At the Andover School of Montessori year-end party, current students were joined by alumni from the last three years. Sharing a pizza, from left, are: Alex Marsh, Kelsey Cruise, Kendall Toland, Laura Vogler, Kristin Villaneuva, Louis Ortiz and Timmy Mauritz.

Kaitlin Mauritz checks out the activity on the playground at Bancroft School, site for the School of Montessori party.

Bus driver rolls out the red carpet for students

By Lisa Boudreau

On Monday, the last day of school for public school students, riders on Bill Lancaster's bus were given the red carpet treatment - literally.

Mr. Lancaster, 68, pulled out all the stops. He wore a tuxedo and a black chauffeur's cap to drive his passengers to school. He also placed a long, red carpet down the aisle to add an extra special touch.

"I thought it would be nice to let them know they were important," said Mr. Lancaster, who lives in the South School neighborhood at 76 Woburn St.

He drives two high school and middle school routes and two South Elementary School routes.

"My kids thought it was great," said Buzz Dunn, of 26

Sunset Rock Road, whose children, William and Laura, take Mr. Lancaster's bus to South School.

"It was so special. That's what we need more of in this town," he added.

Norma Morava, who works in the South School main office, said bus no. 107's students were excited when they arrived at school Monday morning.

"I thought it was really neat that he did that for the kids. He even got off the bus and held the door open for them," she said.

This is Mr. Lancaster's second year driving a bus for the Andover public schools. He said he thought about wearing a tuxedo for the last day of school last year, but decided against it. He said he's glad he followed through with the idea this year.

"The older kids seemed pleased I think, but there weren't that many of them on the bus," said Mr. Lancaster.

The older students

"were more subdued than the smaller ones, who really enjoyed it. One little guy asked me why I was dressed up. I told him I did it just for him and to pay a little respect to the students who had been such good passengers all year. Their faces were just glowing when they got off the bus!" said Mr. Lancaster.

SCHOOLTALK

Andover High School teachers can now relieve stress by exercising. An in-service course offered at AHS was adopted to relieve stress and tension.

This program ran for 10 weeks. A schedule was followed whereby the teachers and AHS staff completed classes in weightlifting, aerobics and martial arts, alternating between weeks. During one week a nutrition specialist gave advice. The course was not intended to accommodate more than 25 participants. However, with the popularity of the course, a maximum of 30 people were permitted. Joe Spanos, who proposed of the course, thought the classes might go well, but was excited to see the overall participation, enthusiasm and benefits the teachers gained from the course. A second course might run in the fall.

The teachers jumped at the opportunity to be instructed by master Jim Keenan, who has taught martial arts for more than 25 years. Not only does Mr. Keenan have several black belts in many forms of martial arts, but he has been to Israel several times to instruct soldiers in the field of self-defense. He was also the oldest member (at age 45) to be selected to represent the U.S. in the Olympics in Peking, China. His manner and gentle methods have made his class relaxing and educational.

Organizers hope he will return in the fall and pick up where he left off. Mr. Spanos noted that all members taking the course participated in many of the techniques offered.

James Whyte, a teacher from West Middle School, will be attending the SEED (Science Education through Experiments and Demonstrations) Leadership Institute this summer. The purpose of this institute is to train teachers from previous SEED summer programs to conduct physical science workshops for middle school teachers. During the

A celebration and grand re-opening of the Indian Ridge playground at Cuba Street is planned for today, Thursday, at 7 p.m. The Quota Club of Andover donated the new playground equipment, including basketball hoops, see-saw, tic-tac-toe, handicap swing and buck-about spring animals. Craig Sutliff put in a lot of time revamping the playground, working toward his Eagle Scout badge, and the town maintenance staff set up all the equipment. Following a brief ceremony, Craig's scout troop will hold a meeting. The police department will send the officer in charge of the area so friends and neighbors can meet him. Refreshments have been donated

Y has test-prep course

The Andover-North Andover YMCA will be offering a PSAT/SAT Preparation Course beginning July 19. The course meets Wednesdays 6:45 - 9:30 p.m., July 19-Aug. 11. The course is designed for students to gain proficiency with a variety of test-taking strategies, to learn when to guess, and how to score and interpret test results. Students apply newly-learned skills by taking actual SATs. Through repeated practice, individuals gain confidence that enables them to perform at their highest level on the rigorous College Board exams. A recognized study skills expert, instructor Roberta Wolman has been successfully preparing students for the SAT and PSAT for more than 15 years. Currently she is a full-time reading and learning disabilities specialist in Lexington, and a registered educational tutor with the Learning Disabilities Network in Rockland. The course tuition is $200 plus a materials charge of $36. For further information about the course, contact Ms. Wolman at (617) 395-8045. Registration is currently being taken at the Andover-North Andover Branch YMCA, 165 Haverhill St. Call 685-3541.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

KEEPING UP APPEARANCES

Aside from returning a bite to its optimum function, a good reason to replace lost teeth in older adults is that it contributes to a better appearance. Tooth loss at the back of the mouth often results in a loss of some of the face's vertical dimension, causing age-related wrinkles that are already radiating from the lips to become deeper. Such deep creasing at the outer corners of the mouth may become inflamed from successive wetting and drying to the point where a condition called angular cheilitis may develop. By properly supporting the bite with replacement teeth, the dentist can help older patients avert chewing problems, sunken visages and inflammation. The overall effect is a more youthful appearance.

Want to improve your smile? There are many techniques at your dentist's fingertips to straighten, brighten, whiten and otherwise enhance your appearance and give you good reason to smile. If you would like to learn more about this topic or would like an appointment, please call us at 475-2431. Easy to find at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93, we offer dental care for the whole family, including restorative, preventive and cosmetic dentistry. Office hours are Mon and Thur 10-8, Tues and Fri 8-6, & by appointment.

PS: Angular cheilitis is also associated with vitamin deficiencies, particularly one involving vitamin B2.

UU Church holds Cape retreat

Last weekend the Andover Unitarian Universalist Church held its annual summer welcoming retreat at Cape Cod Sea Camps in Brewster. One hundred and ten people, ranging in age from preschool to retired got together on Friday night for a weekend favored by near-perfect weather. This weekend gives families and friends a chance to know each other better, with discussions of matters serious and trivial, everyday and eternal.

Activities and games included intergenerational softball, soccer, volleyball, bicycling and sunning.

The traditional

Untalent Show featured juvenile standup comics, novelty acts by senior members, the Battle Hymn of the Women and a musical rendition (more accurately, a chant) by the minister, Rev. Peter Richardson, of "It Ain't Necessarily So", a central tenet of UU belief.

A Sunday morning service followed an early morning warbler walk.

The Andover Unitarian Universalists draw from all religious traditions to help individuals find pathways to spiritual growth in community.

Catherine M. Leno Mother of Tonight Show host Jay Leno

Catherine M. Leno, 82, of 32 Clark Road, died Saturday, June 26, at her home.

Mrs. Leno was born in Glasgow, Scotland. She came to the United States as a teen-ager with her sister. She moved to Andover with her family 33 years ago.

Mrs. Leno, who was the mother of comedian and Tonight Show host Jay Leno, was a home-maker.

Her son said she enjoyed spending time with her family, reading mysteries, cooking, attending painting classes when she was younger, and traveling. She and her husband, Angelo J. Leno, traveled to California often to visit their son.

A few years ago "I took her back to Scotland and we went to the place where she grew up," said her son. "She really got a kick out of that."

He said he and his mother were very close and they talked on the phone almost every day. He said he will miss his mother's sense of humor that never ceased to make him smile.

"I remember a while ago I called to tell her I was on the cover of Time magazine and to pick up copies for the relatives. She didn't believe that I was on the cover all over the country. She thought the magazine people just put me on the cover of the copies in her area - where I was from," he said.

Members of her family include her husband, Angelo J. Leno of Andover; sons, Patrick Leno of Andover and Jay Leno of California; sister, Jessie McKim of Florida; grandson, Richard Leno; and several nieces and nephews.

Services were held Tuesday at West Parish Church. Burial was in West Parish Cemetery.

David Silverman Son is selectman here

David Silverman, 91, of Lawrence, died Friday, June 25, at Hale Hospital in Haverhill.

Mr. Silverman was born in Lawrence and had been a life-long resident of the city.

He was a retired manager for the Graham Corp. of Lawrence Waste Paper Co.

He was past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Lawrence, past board member of the Lawrence Jewish Community Center and past president of Congregation Tifereth Anshai Sfar.

Members of his family include his sons, Selectman Gerald Silverman of Andover and Howard Silverman of Portsmouth, N.H.; daughter, Norma Freedman of North Adams; sisters, Sarah Feinman of Hartford, Conn., and Ruth Katz of Bloomfield, Conn.; five grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

He was the widower of Rose (Datz) Silverman.

Gerald Silverman said his father was a strong person who started out as a truck driver. His brother, Howard Silverman, said at services Monday, "Dad worked hard at two jobs in order to support his family. He was an excellent truck driver and weekends he usually could be found selling shoes to children and adults alike. Dad was one of the likeable Silvermans in town, and there were many."

Bill Huston helps bring art to the deaf

in black, he acted in the language of sign, the American Sign Language.

Mr. Huston has been artistically interpreting plays, music and performances for the deaf for many years.

And he has a growing following in the deaf community and with people who work with the deaf. But there is another audience — people who come out of interest in the artistic interpretation of theater. During last Friday's performance, several members of the hearing audience changed their seats to be able to see both Mr. Huston and the actors on stage. His interpretation adds dimension to the performance on stage.

"I want to stretch art to the maximum," he said. "We have multiple intelligence. There are lots of ways to educate the brain."

English: a second language

Mr. Huston was brought up on a farm in Indiana, the son of deaf parents, with many deaf relatives. Although he is not deaf, nor are his siblings, he communicated almost exclusively in American Sign Language until beginning school.

Career

After serving with the Marines in Vietnam, Mr. Huston attended college and received a master's degree in rehabilitative counseling of psychiatric disorders from Boston University.

Presently, Mr. Huston is curriculum coordinator of the Interpreter Training Program at Northern Essex Community College, and recently he earned the Master Teacher Award of the National Institute of Staff Development, national recognition for teaching excellence.

In March 1992 he was elected to the Andover School Committee.

His career in interpretive theater goes back to an experience 20 years ago in Indiana. Deaf friends asked him to do an artistic interpretation of popular music.

"Community activism is a part of my nature," Mr. Huston chuckled about the family-oriented performance, which he directed and produced for a sold-out house.

He studied with Erick Malzkun of Boston, the first deaf actor in the theater.

Family members

His wife, Marcia, is an occupational therapist and interprets for the stage and screen. Their children, Emily, 10, and Kara, 8, attend South School. Mr. Huston has shared his American Sign Language expertise with the students of South School, teaching before-school and after-school classes to several dozen youngsters.

Preparing for each performance

Preparation for each performance takes 50-150 hours, he said. For six weeks he read and analyzed the script of Cakewalk, and saw the play twice to understand the character development and blocking, that is entrances and placement of actors on the stage. Then he memorized the script and reblocked the scenes in his head.

The performance

When he performs, his back is to the stage. His own little stage is about three feet square in a spotlight in front of the left tier of audience.

"I am never off-stage. I become the body and hands of auditory information."

In Cakewalk he signs the lines of the feisty older woman and his whole body becomes the dominating Lillian Hellman. Then he turns and transforms himself into the stuttering young Cuff, the insecure writer who lives with her.

Never once does Mr. Huston come out of character. He interprets the screams of the wheeling osprey, the curses, music and thunder.

It is intense and it is magical.

Praise from the ART

Lorrie Clark, director of group sales and public access programs at the ART, said she has received letters from the deaf community expressing appreciation and saying how much they enjoyed a particular performance.

She said Mr. Huston's presence has brought in a number of deaf audience and signing hearing audience.

"There is a very favorable response and reaction from the cast members. The relationships with everybody, stage managers, lighting people, have been wonderful," she said.

His favorite

"Shakespeare is my favorite. I want to do all of Shakespeare," said Mr. Huston.

He has artistically interpreted Macbeth with the Royal Shakespeare company in Boston and did The Tempest twice with Trinity Repertory Theatre in Providence. In the latter production, director Adrian Hall placed Mr. Huston on a scaffold above the actors and over the rocking shipwreck. He was center stage and could almost touch the audience, he said.

Other roles

At the Majestic Theatre in Boston, both Mr. and Mrs. Huston artistically interpreted Strega Nona. For Christmas Carol at Trinity Repertory Theatre, Mr. Huston said he wore top hat and tails, moved all over the stage, and integrated into the four vignettes and dance at the finale.

King Lear

This year Mr. Huston interpreted Black Snow, Dream of Red Spider, Heartbreak House and Hedda Gabler, with Cakewalk as the final production.

About his 1991 performance of King Lear, Ms. Clark said, "His interpretation of King Lear ... all the roles ... we were blown away by his abilities. He's truly exceptional with his energy and enthusiasm."

He had memorized all the major parts.

"I generally get a curtain call," he said. "On the way home I realized I got a standing ovation."

Hearing set for train whistles

By Don Staruk

The state Department of Public Utilities has scheduled a public hearing at Memorial Hall Library on Wednesday night, July 21, to hear residents' complaints and concerns about noisy train whistles.

A group of residents has been complaining to town officials since last fall when approximately 200 residents signed a petition in support of quieting the train whistles. The complaints are that the whistles are being blown louder and more frequently than was past practice.

Selectmen in May granted the request of Leo Doherty, of 11 Buxton Court, and asked the state DPU for the public hearing to discuss having at least some of the trains stop blowing their whistles as often and as loudly as they do now.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, has talked with Mary Webster, of 9 Punchard Ave., a commissioner for the DPU, and been told that in similar cases in other communities the DPU has sided with public safety and upheld the whistle blowing. Ms. Webster did not give any reason to believe the department's decision would be any different in Andover.

"The department has to my knowledge never authorized the banning of whistle blowing," she said in May.

Selectmen expect to petition for either a waiver for the whistle blowing or a ban on the whistles during late night and early morning hours.

Although the hearing will take place in July, it might take much longer before a decision is made, according to Ms. Webster.

Vandals strip tree at Stevens St. post office

A young tree in the Stevens Street post office parking lot was vandalized Tuesday night. All the bark on the trunk of the 20-foot, five-inch-diameter tree was stripped from the ground to the beginning of the branch line — about seven feet from the ground.

Louis Pimpore, assistant postmaster, said workers discovered the damaged early Wednesday morning along with several empty beer cans in the parking lot. Jim Bamford, town forester, doesn't believe the tree can survive.

"If it's down to the woody tissue, it's doomed. It doesn't sound good. If they can catch who did it, it's going to be a pretty expensive prank," said Mr. Bamford, who estimated the cost to replace the tree between $700 and $1,000.

"Because it was done maliciously it is triple the damages. If it's kids who did it, then the parents will be responsible," he said.

basic outline for Bancroft," she said. "The kids really got a kick out of that."

During the first two years that Bancroft was open, Ms. Hervol led tours through the building. In 1971 she joined the teaching staff. She had worked in the business field, but decided it wasn't for her.

"Personal satisfaction," she said, is what she has received during the past 22 years.

Most of her 22 years in the Andover public school system were spent teaching at Bancroft. But she also taught at the former Doherty Elementary School and kindergarten at the Early Childhood Center at Shawsheen School. During the 1975-'76 school year she traveled to England on a Fulbright scholarship to teach.

Liz Cahoon

Ms. Cahoon has worked in the Andover school system for 29 years, but she began teaching several years before that in California.

The summer after she graduated from college, Ms. Cahoon worked for the Hallmark greeting card company.

"I worked behind a desk and basically did paint by numbers. Someone drew the card and I was told what colors to fill in. I didn't like it at all.

"That summer convinced me that I could never work behind a desk all day without interacting with people," she said.

Ms. Cahoon's first Andover job was as a guidance counselor at the junior high when all the students were in one building. She then taught elementary school at Bancroft and West Elementary and went later back to Bancroft.

Lou Hopley

When Ms. Hopley graduated from college with a teaching degree, she was offered what a college placement counselor told her would be a wonderful opportunity — a teaching job in a one-room school house in Western Massachusetts. She said she was skeptical, but decided to accept the job anyway.

"It was the most wonderful experience," she said. "I had all the elementary grades up to eighth grade. In the morning I'd walk down the street to school and all the kids would meet me and we'd walk together."

Ms. Hopley has many funny anecdotes from that year, including her trials and tribulations of running a 4-H club that parents asked her to start.

"I knew nothing about animals, but the parents all helped. We even collected eggs in the morning before school," she said.

Not too long ago she was telling her Andover students about her first teaching assignment. One little boy raised his hand and asked her if she taught Laura Ingalls Wilder in that one-room school house.

For the past 13 years, Ms. Hopley has taught at Bancroft, but before that she taught at the former Doherty Elementary for seven years and was a special education substitute in town for three years.

Why they became teachers

Each morning the three teachers say they wake up and look forward to going to work. Ms. Hopley said she knew as a first-grader that she wanted to be a teacher. Her teacher at that time was her idol and role model.

Ms. Hervol put herself through college by working part time in an office. She was convinced teaching was for her when she went back into the business world for a short time after her children were born.

"When you compare the two, you realize that teaching is much more personally satisfying. You can type a letter, but you don't make a difference in people's lives like you do as a teacher," she said.

Ms. Cahoon agrees. She believes that no other profession allows people to make an impact on others' lives in such a positive way. Not too long ago she received a letter from a former student she taught in the 1960s. The man wrote to thank her for caring about him.

Ms. Cahoon said the student, whom she taught in junior high, returned to talk to her as he was about to graduate high school. He was trying to decide whether to enlist in the military and go to Vietnam or go to college. He decided on the latter.

"That was more than 20 years ago and he wrote to say he was thinking of our conversation 20 years later and that it was still vivid in his mind," Ms. Cahoon said. "He said he was glad I was there to talk to all those years ago," she said.

Changes in the schools

Elementary school teachers still teach the three Rs, but over the years they have added computers, problem-solving and higher-level thinking skills to their classroom repertoires. Teachers are also working together in teams more than they used to, said Ms. Cahoon, which they all agree is a positive development.

In addition to having more curriculum responsibilities, the three said teachers today are being asked to tackle more non-teaching responsibilities, such as dealing with students' emotional and discipline problems.

The increasing number of single-parent and double-income families also means that fewer parents are available to volunteer on a regular basis. Ms. Hopley said parents help when they can, but many of them don't have flexible work schedules that allow them to take time off during the day.

"I find it difficult to get volunteers for field trips," she said. "It isn't that parents aren't interested, because they are always available for conferences, but during the day both parents are working," Ms. Hopley said.

What they will miss

Ms. Hopley and Ms. Hervol laughed when Ms. Cahoon said jokingly that she'd miss bus duty, but all three agreed that they'll miss the camaraderie of the Bancroft staff and the wonderful relationships they have built with parents and children in the Bancroft neighborhood.

Ms. Hervol said she'd miss the supportive administration, from the building principal to the assistant superintendent and superintendent of schools.

"Whenever I had an idea or a project I wanted to do, the administration listened to me and they'd say, 'Try it.' It's a very positive place to work," she said.

"The attitude has always been, 'Go for it,'" agreed Ms. Hopley.

A supportive administration and students and parents who take time to thank teachers are just a few ways teachers remain energized, they said.

Besides bus duty, Ms. Cahoon said she's going to miss the feeling of accomplishment she gets each June when her students finished one grade and are ready to enter another in the fall.

"It is such a joy to watch their little minds grow, develop and mature during the school year. I say to myself, 'We did it,' and I know the students are ready and I can send them on to the next grade with confidence and know that they will succeed," she said.

Retired, but not standing still

Ms. Hervol will not officially retire until the end of the summer. During the next few months she will work for the school department developing a volunteer pilot program for the schools.

She developed a questionnaire, and parents in the Bancroft School district have already filled it out, listing what areas of expertise they have and when and how they would be willing to volunteer in the schools.

Ms. Hervol will compile the information during the summer and put together a directory of the parents' names and talents for teachers. The eventual goal, she said, is for other teachers to use her model to compile directories for their own schools.

In addition to the directory, Ms. Hervol said she is working on completing a walking tour guide of historic houses and buildings in the Bancroft School neighborhood.

Ms. Cahoon plans to move to Colorado where she has many friends. She also plans to develop several ideas she's had to write and illustrate children's books.

Ms. Hopley also plans to move. She will join her family in Arizona, where she will become a "full-time grandmother" and perhaps volunteer in the schools there.

SENIORS

By Sharon L. Souza

The Senior Center will be closed Monday, July 5, in observance of the Fourth of July holiday.

The Parkinson's and Alzheimer's support groups and the Andover Chapter of AARP will not meet during the summer months. Meetings will resume in September.

The stroke support group will meet Thursday, July 15, at 1:30 p.m. at the Senior Center. Everyone is welcome.

Chester Comascio of New York Life Insurance Company will present a lecture on "Nursing Home Placement" Thursday, July 22, at 12:30 p.m. at the Senior Center. All are welcome.

Congratulations to Florence Letters whose entry was selected for our "Name the Newsletter" contest. The new name for our newsletter is "Elder News and Views." We are now accepting entries for a new logo design for the newsletter. Entries will be accepted at the Senior Center and the winner selected by the Council on Aging in September will receive a $25 gift certificate to DeMoulas.

Several people have suggested we name the recently redecorated dining room at the center. Can you think of a good name? Stop by for lunch and be inspired. Submit your suggestion at the Senior Center front desk. The winner will receive a month of free lunches at the center. The winner will be chosen in September by the Council on Aging Board.

The Council on Aging is seeking candidates interested in serving on the board. Anyone interested in advocating for the well-being of seniors in the community is encouraged to express their interest by calling Sharon Souza (470-3830). The board will select one candidate to fill the current vacancy.

Raffle tickets to the Aug. 14 Red Sox/Blue Jays ball game at Fenway Park are now being sold. The game starts at 1:05 p.m. and the seats are excellent. Raffle tickets are three for $1 and can be purchased at the Senior Center through Aug. 1.

The Senior Center offers hot meals for seniors Monday through Friday at 11:30 a.m. Meals are served for the low cost of $1. You must call by 2 p.m. on the previous day to reserve lunch. It's a great way to socialize and meet with friends. Dining with the seniors gives me the opportunity to meet several of you and the meals are delicious. I hope you'll join us.

The Senior Center welcomed Franklin Ollivierre, Massachusetts Secretary of Elder Affairs from the Executive Office of Elder Affairs in Boston, on Thursday, June 24. He visited the center and had the opportunity to chat with several seniors, local dignitaries and staff.

SENIOR MEALS

Here's what for lunch at the Senior Center the week of July 5-9:

Monday: Holiday, Senior Center closed.

Tuesday: Beef stew with garden vegetables, whipped potatoes, homemade biscuit, chilled pears, milk.

Wednesday: Chicken ala king, green beans, wheat bread, cake with frosting, milk.

Thursday: Cup of soup, hot ham and cheese sub, tossed salad, ice cream cup, milk.

Friday: Clam chowder, seafood salad roll, coleslaw, fresh fruit.

For reservations, call 470-4800 before 2 p.m. in the business day before the lunch you plan to attend. The Senior Center will serve baked chicken on Monday, July 12, and veal cutlet on Tuesday, July 13.

LLL to show movie July 8 about the Shakers

The Life Long Learners of Northern Essex Community College will present the movie The Shakers: Hands to Work, Hearts to God Thursday, July 8, at 2 p.m. in the Projection Room, Building E #155 on the Haverhill Campus.

The Shakers are known for the simple beauty of their furniture and their practice of celibacy, but their spiritual perspective had a significant impact on American culture in the 18th and 19th centuries.

This film explores the history, philosophy and daily life of the Shakers.

For more information, call Claudia Lach or May DiPietro at 374-3688.

Selectmen update ZBA gains a member

Monday night. Mr. Reilly has been an alternate member of the board since 1989. He replaces C. Ryan Buckley, who stepped down after serving six years on the board, three as a regular member and three as an alternate.

There are still two associate member vacancies on the ZBA. There is also a vacancy on the Finance Committee and two openings on the Design Advisory Group.

The board also approved:

- A block party on Pasho Street on Saturday, July 3, from 2-9 p.m.;

- A 5-mile Road Race organized by the Knights of Columbus beginning on Abbot Street at 6:30 p.m., on Thursday, Aug. 12.

- A concession stand in the pro shop at Andover Country Club as an area for serving alcoholic beverages.

Bond interest lowest in 27 years

The town last week sold $4.1 million in bonds at 4.1 percent interest, the lowest rate received in 27 years.

"The low bidder, Kidder Peabody, bid 4.1247 percent on our $4.1 million bond sale. This rate was the lowest since 1966 and will save the town thousands of dollars over the life of the debt," Mr. Torrissi wrote in a memo to town officials.

"Last June, 1992, we sold at 5 percent. This difference will save the town about $200,000 over the life of the debt," Mr. Torrissi said Friday.

Mr. Torrissi said the low interest rate is due to the AA rating the town has with Moody's Investor Service. He gave Mike Muise, retiring collector and treasurer, much of the credit for acquiring the low interest rate.

It's a pleasure talking to Moody's or to the banking community when they tell us we're rated double A, Mr. Torrissi said.

Mr. Muise is well known in the profession for running a top-notch treasurer and collector's office and is respected by residents as well, Mr. Torrissi said. During the past few years, when many residents had trouble paying taxes on time, Mr. Muise found ways to work with those people so they did not lose their homes.

"It's a great way to go out with a bond sale like this," Mr. Torrissi said.

The bonds will allow $400,000 to be used for construction of water mains, $65,000 for repairs at the water treatment plant, $500,000 for construction of a water pumping station, $100,000 for sidewalk construction, $220,000 for development of school-building plans. $2.4 million for school remodeling and $415,000 for payment of a court judgment on the trash-to-energy facility in North Andover.

Questioning the job selection process

Chairman William Downs Monday night questioned the process that the town manager uses to select job applicants for positions with the town.

Mr. Downs said the search committees Mr. Stapczynski sets up to sift through applicants should be subject to approval by the Board of Selectmen, a process he said that is covered in the town charter regarding appointment of committees. Mr. Downs specifically questioned whether members of the library's board of trustees, some of whom are on the search committee looking for a new library director, should be given that responsibility.

But none of the other three selectmen at the meeting agreed with Mr. Downs.

Selectman Charles Wesson said the town manager does not need selectmen approval for employee searches and said it is an area of administration. What the town manager is doing is trying to involve employees with a legitimate interest in the position in the process, and it takes away from the politics in the process Mr. Wesson said.

"I think it's a good process," Mr. Wesson said.

Selectmen James Barenboim and Larry Larsen also disagreed with Mr. Downs.

Mr. Stapczynski said that, to date, he has taken the position that the search process is an internal process for management.

But Mr. Downs said that any group the town manager appoints is subject to approval by the board.

Mr. Downs said it comes down to the point that the town manager believes these are not a "committee" but a "team."

Mr. Downs asked that the town manager and town counsel meet with him to discuss the matter in more depth.

Poll-workers' tax cut

The board endorsed a letter to be sent to senators John F. Kerry and Edward M. Kennedy requesting the senators' support for a piece of legislation exempting poll-workers from social security tax for work done on election day.

House Resolution 1332 would save the town about $1,500 a year in processing costs, but the main reason for it is to save the poll-workers the extra expense, according to Mr. Stapczynski. Many of the poll-workers are retired and collect social security anyway, and none makes very much for his or her work on elections, Mr. Stapczynski said.

"It's our way of going to bat for them," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Essex County EOCD grant

The board approved Mr. Stapczynski's request to support a grant application from the Essex County Advisory Board to the Executive Office of Communities and Development for a regional service coordinator for the county.

Although the position would not do much for Andover because the town takes care of most of its own services, it would help smaller communities pool their resources for some services, Mr. Stapczynski said. And the cost would be minimal, he said.

"It's not going to affect our assessment," Mr. Stapczynski said.

The cost of the position would be divided among 37 cities and towns in the county.

Kids on agenda

Selectman Larry Larsen wants next month's board agenda to include a discussion on the idea for a youth town meeting, which was first discussed by selectmen several months ago.

Dr. Larsen also wants to talk about enhancing communication with kids in schools through the school government.

Executive session

The selectmen went into executive session to discuss collective bargaining at the conclusion of the night's other business.

Restoring our faith in people

We need more people like school-bus driver Bill Lancaster in this town — in this world, as a matter of fact. Mr. Lancaster, 68 years old, donned a tuxedo and black chauffeur's cap to drive students on bus number seven to and from South School Monday, the last day of school. He said he wanted to let the children know they are important!

Attitudes and actions such as Mr. Lancaster's are contagious and full of humor and love. You can read the story and see a photo of Mr. Lancaster on page 15.

In the letters pages, 33-35, are many written in support of mentally-handicapped people. We hope that those who wrote such articulate and loving letters would react the same way if a group home for mentally-retarded adults were to locate next to their house. We believe the letter-writers would be encouraging and supportive of such a move.

The response from the community to negative words about another group home possibly locating here is heartening. It looks like the agency that originally was attempting to buy real estate here to house four mentally-retarded adults should keep up the local search.

Andover, it appears, is supportive to all neighbors, be they "perfect" or not.

What good news.

Community picture

Neighbors and friends will celebrate tonight, Thursday, at 7, the re-opening of the Indian Ridge playground at Cuba Street. It is a celebration of community co-operation.

The Quota Club, which is contributing widely to this community, donated the new playground equipment, including basketball hoops, see-saw and more. [See page 16.]

Craig Sutliff helped re-vamp the playground while working toward his Eagle Scout badge, and the town maintenance staff set up the equipment. Police will send an officer in charge of the area to tonight's celebration, so friends and neighbors can meet him. It's a great community picture.

Marie Gentz reads about rain forests to her children, Michael and Molly, twins who will be 4 in September. Because the family doesn't watch television, the children want to be read to as much as possible, their mother reports.

TV-less family doesn't know Ninja Turtles

By Perry Colmore

We ran a brief story last week, in a couple of different places in the paper, asking for volunteer families that would be willing to give up television for a week to 10 days. Several families called and want to work with us — thank you, congratulations and stay tuned, we will write those stories in a few weeks. But today I want to tell you about the Gentz family, of 13 Lucerne Drive. In a way, this family fits into this story, but in a way, it doesn't.

"Hello, this is Marie Gentz," the phone call began. "I'm responding to your ad for families willing to give up TV for a while. We don't have one."

How's that? No TV? Today? Are you from Mars? Well, I didn't say all that, but I couldn't believe I'd found a family that doesn't watch the almighty tube. This one doesn't. And because that's not what we are writing about for the no-TV story, I decided to tell you about the Gentz, no-TV family simply because it is an interesting story.

Marie Gentz, 36 years old, and her husband, Michael, 38, have been married since 1977. They have twins, Michael and Molly, who will be 4 in September. Marie doesn't work outside of the home; she's at home with her children. Michael runs the Dili Dali Deli, a restaurant the two have owned on Route 38 in Tewksbury for 13 years.

Both Marie and Michael grew up in Tewksbury. As a child, Marie watched TV, "all the time."

"I was never read to," she explained. "My father worked three jobs; my mother was a native of Italy and she spoke broken English. Stories were never read in my house."

Several years ago, before the Gentzes had children, they were trying to cut down on their bills so they dropped cable TV. And without cable, said Marie, reception was so bad a person couldn't watch, so they got out of the TV habit.

When they had television, "My husband and I would never have a conversation," Marie told me. She said they would both come home from work so tired that they would order food from a takeout place, and "we'd plop down on the couch in front of the TV."

Today they rent probably five 30-minute tapes a week for their VCR, but that's it. Those tapes are National Geographic tapes, or the like.

And even though Marie says some adults have told her she will have to let her children watch TV so they will know what's going on in the world, she disagrees.

"My children are going to be 4 and they are avid readers," she said. Actually, her children can't read more than some letters and isolated words. What she means is that Molly and Michael want to hear stories all the time. During breakfast, for instance, they ask her to read them a story.

"They'd rather open a book than anything else," she said. "We probably spend one and a half hours reading every day."

Their mother says the Gentz family is well known at Memorial Hall Library, where the children's room librarian will save for Michael a new book on firefighters. "My son thinks he's a firefighter," said his mother.

"My kids just wouldn't miss story hour at the library."

Little Michael doesn't even know what a Ninja Turtle is. I asked Marie if she feels her children will be social misfits when they start school and find everyone talking about purple dinosaurs.

"No, I don't," was her answer. "My daughter is into horses. She can tell you all about horses. My children are so into stories. Sometimes they argue over their imaginative friends. My children know what a gale wind is;

Teen series . . .

Editor, Townsmen:

I am writing to thank all of the members of the Townsmen who contributed to the four-part series on "Andover for Teens."

In a word, the series was excellent. The articles and interviews brought new lenses to bear on long-standing problems. Students were treated with the respect they deserve, and the citizens of Andover all made plain just how important our young adults are.

The articles did more than inform; they helped draw our community together. Thank you for an excellent piece of journalism.

Mark K. McQuillan, Ed.D.
superintendent of schools

Bill Hart deserved better

Editor, Townsmen:

How upsetting it is to see experienced teachers unwelcome in Andover schools. I am dismayed at the impersonal vote by the School Committee against the extension of unpaid leave of absence for Mr. (William) Hart as he continues to broaden his teaching foundation at the American Community Schools of Athens in Greece.

My experience at Andover High would have been ordinary without working with Mr. Hart, the educator who shattered the classic definition of a high school teacher. His example has left me prepared to encounter the challenges beyond the confinements of Andover. Mr. Hart contributed to all facets of high school life. If he wasn't in the classroom, he might be found coaching on the football field, moderating a student government debate, advising Andover High's budding Mock Trial team, driving the Junior Statesmen to Washington, D.C., or contributing to programs to end racism and drug use at Andover High.

Family says no to Ninja Turtles

they know bird sounds and all about nature.

"I'm not the type of person who thinks, my children have to learn this and that."

Molly and Michael take a creative movement class at Faith Lutheran Church in which "there is no right or wrong way." They have taken a gym class at the YMCA.

"They are very socially adept," said their mother.

"My children don't have nightmares. They are into people's feelings. I am a real advocate of Throw The TV Out.

Because of Mr. Hart, my high school experience was extraordinary.

Mr. Hart personalized his teaching in Andover schools. At the very least, he deserves the same individual attention he gave to students. Rather than studying dates and numbers, I hope the committee responsible for the maintenance of Andover's high scholastic standards would focus on who makes Andover schools great, teachers like Mr. Hart. His cultural enrichment in Greece would be a priceless addition to the homogeneous Andover High School. Even if the most impersonal observation is to be made, that concerning money, extending Mr. Hart's leave would provide additional finances to the school budget.

I cannot fathom how the School Committee could decide to deprive students from learning from this exemplar of education. Your effort to make an example of Mr. Hart and "get tough" on the leave policy will have a damaging effect on Andover schools.

Retarded people work hard, too

Editor, Townsmen:

Thank you for the article about our friends at Fidelity House. It was a welcome balance to the related article about the resident who objects to a group home for retarded persons in his neighborhood. ["Resident protests DMH home here; Group home for retarded adults to look elsewhere," page 1 June 24.]

Yes, Mr. Koles, persons with mental retardation have the same rights as you and I do. Their rights to live anywhere are honored with the same protections that assure that elitist, self-serving persons with no compassion can settle where they wish. In America we don't hand-pick our neighbors.

It is Mr. Koles' opinion that those who live in "upper class" neighborhoods must slave and sweat to be worthy of living there. This would not exclude persons with retardation, who work very hard every day, year in and year out. I wonder if he realizes what he might be implying about people who are supported by inherited wealth.

It is regrettable that a group home will not be located in his neighborhood. Mr. Koles' son would have been able to observe first-hand some important life values like courage, perseverance and spirit from those whose daily lives demand efforts far exceeding what most of us face in a lifetime.

These are not poor, unfortunate subjects of pity but individuals whose striving for greater independence commands respect and dignity. Pity is reserved only for those whose concept of community is so narrow and limited as not to welcome them.

Nancy M. Mulvey

Heartsick . . .

Editor, Townsmen:

I am mind-boggled. I am heartsick by Mr. David Koles' statement regarding the North Suffolk Mental Health Association's attempt to purchase the home on Castle Heights Road in Andover.

Assuming Mr. Koles' statement was accurately quoted in the Townsmen (that "he can't understand how they have the right to live anywhere. Do they have the right to live in an upper-class neighborhood even though they didn't slave and sweat to get there?"), may I suggest that Mr. Koles walk in the shoes of the retarded but one day.

No exemptions

Editor, Townsmen:

This letter speaks to the concerns of Mr. Koles.

Mental retardation, mental illness, physical disabilities know no boundaries. No one is exempt.

A family buying a house next door may indeed be the "all-American" family. But there is no guarantee that a family member may not be mentally retarded, mentally ill, involved with substance abuse or physically disabled. Furthermore, there is no guarantee that someone in the family will not become mentally ill, involved with substance abuse or physically disabled. Supervision and medications may be well monitored or not monitored at all.

In a group home, there is supervision and monitoring of clients and of medications taken by trained staff 24 hours a day. The clients who live in the DMH-owned group homes in Andover have family members who are citizens and taxpayers of Andover. Somehow, it seems inappropriate to say that some cannot live in the same town as their loved ones because they are disabled enough to need special attention.

Mr. Koles is very articulate. He is most welcome to attend the meetings of the citizen's area board and let his voice be heard so that the quality of life of all citizens of Andover continue to be addressed in a positive and progressive way.

Norma Eisenberg, president
Merrimack Valley Citizen Area
Board, DMH

So intolerant

Editor, Townsmen:

Dear Mr. Koles:

Since you have chosen to air your views concerning the location of a new residence facility for the mentally disabled in the public forum, you must now be ready for what we hope will be a barrage of dissenting opinion.

As parents of two very young children, we are also concerned foremost with their safety and well-being. In your letter to the Townsmen, you profess your concern for your son's safety due to the increase in traffic flow from the facility, as well as the possibility of its residents' violent tendencies.

While seemingly laudable, the facade of your concern for your son's safety is quickly replaced by the true nature of your reservations about the facility - property values. How dare you question and challenge the right of the mentally retarded to live anywhere while comparing them to people in Lawrence who "make their extra money through insurance fraud and workmen's compensation?" Can you not see the distinction of free will (as in the latter) and a tragic consequence of genetic misfiring or birth injury (as in the former)?

Not only have you vilified the mentally retarded in your diatribe, but also the citizens of Lawrence with your sweeping generalizations. (And yes, Mr. Koles, you did sound "elitist.") The mentally retarded did not choose to be born with an impairment. They would love to be (and do) contribute gainfully to society. How dare you place yourself in judgment of where they can or cannot live or with whom they can or cannot be social? In fact, your views are frighteningly Hitleresque. Shall we dispose of them all through some sort of "biological or intelligence cleansing?" Shall we return to the days of old and chain them to beds, never to be seen by the outside world?

No doubt your ideal new neighbor would be a high-powered executive making $200K, driving a Mercedes and holding membership at all the right country clubs. After all, we must keep up the neighborhood.

Yet you would know less about him than you would your potential mentally retarded neighbors. He could be a child molester, a drug dealer or engage in some other abhorrent behavior. But chances are he isn't mentally retarded and that's the most important thing, right? Or perhaps there is also a race criterion your new neighbor must meet. Perhaps we will hear from you again should a minority be interested in the property.

We often wonder as a society how we became so intolerant, so filled with hate. The answer lies in your letter - the passing on of a warped value system. Your son will be endowed with a value system not of love, understanding and acceptance, but of materialism, distrust and self-absorption. We pity him.

In closing your letter, you make reference to being tested by God through this situation. We can't help but feel that you have failed miserably. But we will let God grade your paper.

ple. How fortunate you are that you don't know what a heartache it is to have a developmentally disabled child to take care of and worry about. How could you say you are not insensitive with what is around you? I am 81 and I love these people.

And more . . .

Editor, Townsmen:

I am in response to Mr. Koles' unhealthy attitude!

These young adults have a God-given right to live and breathe anywhere. Perhaps your neighbor might learn a Christian lesson from what you call "22-year-olds with 7-year-old minds."

You and your neighbors need a lesson in charity and humility.

Insensitivity . .

Editor, Townsmen:

Having lived in Andover for more than 33 years, I am happy to say that I have met very few such uninformed, insensitive individuals as Mr. David Koles appears to be from his June 24 letter in the Townsmen. Happily, the group-home planned by North Suffolk people will not be located there in the Castle Heights area.

Developmentally disabled/mentally retarded individuals work to their full potential (sweat and tears) just to accomplish everyday goals and tasks. Most normal individuals access only a small percentage of their intellectual capacity or physical abilities in their lifetime to excel at many things.

Having been a PTA member, 766 advocate, CLASS board member, DMR advisory board member, Creative Living board member and worked in the Andover schools for most of those years, I would be most happy to ask if he understands such terms as special ed, mainstreaming, de-institutionalization, peer-integration and normalization. Wonder where he has been these last 20 years. Perhaps he would like to visit the Bartlet Street home mentioned on the rest of that page. Those people have lived there nearly 20 years (or others of the same group). I have not heard any complaints such as his from the neighbors in downtown Andover, definitely hard-working, middle-class people as well. Compassion and empathy must be taught by example.

Open heart . .

Editor, Townsmen:

As a recent recipient of the National Shriver Center Award for a lifetime of service to people with mental retardation, I am compelled to respond to Mr. Koles' letter.

For the past 45 years my efforts have been geared toward changing the public's perception of people with mental retardation and ensuring fair treatment and acceptance in our community. Obviously I have missed Mr. Koles in my travels. I would welcome the opportunity to open Mr. Koles' heart and mind and sensitize him to the needs of people with retardation and their families. We must empower people with special needs to achieve their maximum potential and this can only be accomplished with the support of our community.

Mr. Koles, people with retardation have no more of a propensity to reduce your property value or bring crime to your neighborhood than any other person or family in our society. People labeled with special needs are entitled to live anywhere. Both young and old can learn unconditional love and acceptance from people with retardation. I am saddened that in today's day and age you remain so uninformed and insensitive to people with special needs.

I would like to thank the Andover Townsmen for including the lovely article about the men and women who live at Fidelity House on Bartlet Street because this is truly a wonderful success story.

Rosalie Ruggiero

God's people

Editor, Townsmen:

I just can't believe Mr. Koles would object to a Fidelity House for the mentally retarded. They are the most lovable children and they are God's special children. I also have a nephew who is retarded and is the most precious and likable child.

Nellie M. Lucas
Lawrence

Struggle . . .

Editor, Townsmen:

How fortunate for Mr. Koles that he has not had to deal with the ongoing struggle of having a developmentally-delayed child, that he has not had to deal firsthand with the dashing of dreams and the grief of knowing that, on some level, this child will always need the community's support and protectiveness. This child cannot just go outside and play in his yard or go to the neighborhood school and be easily accepted and integrated into a classroom. This child needs the community's support for special education classes and she/he needs the community's acceptance to be someone's friend, in spite of being "different." This child's mother and father have to deal with the dashing of dreams that she/he will ever have the skills and abilities to hold a prestigious job or have the earning power to buy a home in a town like Andover.

Do these children, when they grow up, have a right to live in our town and be a part of our neighborhoods? Most definitely, yes! Mentally retarded men and women are the sons and daughters of our residents, too, and many of them are living in homes in our neighboring communities, such as Lawrence, and, yes, in Revere and Chelsea, too. It is unfortunate that we need to deal again and again with discrimination against our sons and daughters and that we need to struggle with members of our own community to give them the "right" to be our next door neighbor.

I would encourage Mr. Koles to become familiar with the work of such agencies as Fidelity House and North Suffolk and to realize that while they may be a business, they also provide a deeply appreciated service for some of the members of this community who have mentally retarded sons and daughters and that there are many of us in town who would welcome these agencies into our neighborhoods.

People help people

Editor, Townsmen:

As a life-long resident of Andover and president of Creative Living Inc., an Andover based non-profit organization establishing innovative residential homes for adult retarded people, I am compelled to respond to Mr. David Koles' letter.

Daily I am confronted with aging parents who suffer from the anxiety of not knowing what the future has in store for their loved ones. These parents fear that their child with retardation will not be cared for as they grow old and can only hope that their son or daughter will be accepted as a student, employee or a neighbor. These parents have not sat idly waiting to be served by the state or federal government. They have enlisted the help of friends, neighbors, churches, synagogues and local businesses to raise private monies for community-based supported employment opportunities and creative housing options for their sons and daughters. The concept is quite simple, it is people helping people.

People help . .

These families have worked tirelessly for change and seek every opportunity to educate and enlighten people like Mr. Koles as to the lifetime of vulnerability that their adult son or daughter with mental retardation faces. The town of Andover has always been committed to improving the life of people with retardation by being a community of "inclusion."

My life has been enriched by people with mental retardation and their families. I hope that one day soon Mr. Koles will open his heart and mind to understand that we as a community must have respect and consideration for all people.

Editor,
Townsmen:

Why doesn't Mr. Koles volunteer a

Bad idea

Editor,

Townsmen:

"Is it not better to lead a good fashion than follow a bad one?... (Anna Sewell, Black Beauty, 1910).

Keeping developmentally delayed adults out of "upscale" neighborhoods seems surely a bad fashion.

"I still have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal'... Let freedom ring!..." (Martin Luther King Jr., 1968)

Not everyone is created physically or mentally equal; some excel with less effort than others, some excel in different ways than others.

With the passage of the American Disabilities Act this year, it seems appropriate to look for new chances for all American citizens.

"There is nothing wrong with America that cannot be cured by what is right with America..." (President William Clinton, 1993)

NIMBY (not in my backyard) is a sentiment whose time to pass has come and gone. We all have much to gain from each other.

A life

Editor,

Townsmen:

In response to Mr. William Elmer's June 24 letter, he would do well to rethink his position on the morality of abortion. ["Only abortions for married couples are evil," page 35.]

Situational ethics may work in the discussion of some moral questions, but not in this life-or-death case. A human being is killed in each and every abortion - that is a simple biological fact. How that life was conceived does not determine its worth. Whether a baby is born by a married woman or an unwed teen-age girl, the child has the same intrinsic value and the same right to life.

Bernadette Lyons
12 High St.

Rights . .

Editor,

Townsmen:

I am writing in response to Helen Taylor's letter (June 17) and William Elmer's (June 25).

Abortion will no longer be necessary when all women can make the choice to become pregnant or not. Until birth control and sex education are 100 percent effective and women can live in complete safety without the threat of being sexually abused, assaulted and raped, there will be a need for abortion services.

It is the individual's choice what to do with her own private life and her own body. The rape of the individual's privacy can be as severe an assault as the physical one.

Until we can all live in safety, abortion services must be accessible and funded.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

DISC CONTINUATION

Most people would expect that a herniated ("slipped disc") would cause excruciating back pain. While it is true that a bulging disc can be the source of sharp pain in the lower back upon movement, most disc abnormalities give rise to other, less obvious symptoms. Among these are: muscle weakness; loss of sensation or numbness and/or tingling in the leg and/or foot; an inability to stand on toes or heels; a deep dull ache in the buttocks, thigh, calf, and (sometimes) foot; and bladder and bowel incontinence. The fact is that many people suffer from disc problems but do not associate their symptoms with disc protrusion. After diagnosing disc problems, the chiropractor skillfully aligns misplaced vertebrae as a means of reducing stress and pressure on discs.

If you are experiencing any of these symptoms, don't hesitate to see your chiropractor. A check-up today can help prevent more serious problems in the future. For an appointment, please call DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042. We offer natural and safe care for the entire family and accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Muscle-strengthening exercises also play a role in keeping vertebrae aligned and reducing pressure on discs.

Lowell's Boarding House Park Performance Series

Kick off the 4th of July Weekend with bluegrass

The Lowell's Boarding House Park Performance Series kicks off the 4th of July Weekend with a performance by Southern Rail, well-known bluegrass musicians, on Saturday, July 3, at 8 p.m. The All-American celebration continues on Sunday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m. with the Gentlemen Songsters and the New Liberty Jazz Band.

Southern Rail bluegrass quartet includes guitarist and lead singer/songwriter Jim Muller, award-winning banjo player and baritone singer Dave Dick, mandolin player and bass vocalist Jim Rohrer and acoustic bass player and vocalist Sharon Horovitch. This event is sponsored by Textron Specialty Materials.

The Gentlemen Songsters, a 35-man barbershop chorus, sings the traditional four-part, a cappella musical style. The group has been crowned Small Chorus Champion three times by the Barbershop Harmony Society and this fall the Songsters will go to Montreal to compete in the Northeastern District Chorus Competition.

Performing from an antique fire engine called "The Jazz Machine," the New Liberty Jazz Band will perform lively renditions of traditional New Orleans music. This event is sponsored by Enterprise Bank & Trust and Mill City Iron Works.

There is a requested donation of $3 at each of the performances; children under 12 are free.

Boarding House Park is located at the corner of French and John streets, Lowell. In case of rain, the performance will take place at Lowell Memorial Auditorium, 50 East Merrimack St.

Boarding House Park performances are presented by the University of Massachusetts Lowell Center for the Arts in cooperation with the Lowell Historic Preservation Commission.

For more information call 459-1000.

In addition to the performances at Boarding House Park, the 4th of July festivities will include a number of other activities in the downtown Lowell area. Children's bike races, sponsored by the Lowell Sun, will start at 2 p.m. on Sunday, July 4. The races, open to children from preschool to 12 years old, will begin in front of the JFK Civic Center on Arcand Drive. There is an entry fee of $5 and preregistration forms can be picked up at the Lowell Sun office on Merrimack Street. Entrants must come to the registration area in front of the Civic Center by 1 p.m. on the day of the race to receive a free T-shirt and pick up a number. Medals will be awarded to the top three riders in each race. All participants must wear protective sports or cycling helmets.

The Lowell Family Fair will get underway at 4 p.m. in the Civic Center area with activities for children and adults, featuring karaoke, a needle-in-the-haystack contest, face painting, water-gun games, and arts and crafts projects.

Food will be available for purchase from 4 to 7 p.m.

The New Liberty Jazz Band will lead concert-goers in a procession to the Civic Center at the end of the concert to view a fireworks display at 9:30 p.m.

Fourth of July event features art raffle, crafts, food and more

A framed painting by artist Phila Slade has been donated to raffle on "The Fourth of July event on the Common" in North Andover, with proceeds to benefit The People's Pantry. Tickets, priced at $1 each, will be available at the People's Pantry table. Hours for the table will be noon to 4 p.m. with a drawing at 4 p.m. Other featured items will be baked goods by Elaine Proulx, crafts by Ada Rocchi, and People's Pantry specialty items, which include T-shirts, aprons and tote bags.

The People's Pantry began in October 1992 and is run entirely by volunteers. It provides nutritionally balanced foods on a weekly basis to people from North Andover, Andover, Methuen, Lawrence, Haverhill, and other surrounding towns. About 60 families per week depend upon the pantry for food.

Comedians coming to town

Riverview Commons Apartment Community on Bulfinch Drive will sponsor a comedy night to benefit the charity, My Turn, on Friday, July 9, at 7:30 p.m. The comedy night will feature comedians Colin Blake of the show HBO on the Road and Johnny McPhee of the MTV Comedy Half Hour. They regularly donate their time to do shows for Project My Turn.

AAA comedians will run the show.

Project My Turn is an alliance of partners from schools, corporations and institutions of higher education. Their mission is to assist students to find jobs after high school and to assist financially disadvantaged and minority students who are academically talented gain acceptance to four-year colleges.

The group also assist students likely to drop out of high school to stay in school.

A limited number of tickets are available. The show will be outside around the pool area.

Bulfinch Drive is off River Road near Doyle Lumber and the Goodnews Building.

Post 8 wins seven in a row before posting loss

By Rick Harrison

Picking up where it left off last summer, the Andover American Legion Post 8 baseball team opened the 1993 campaign with seven straight victories before losing its first regular season game in two years earlier this week.

Included were three consecutive shutouts as Post 8 pitchers put together a string of 30 scoreless innings over a five-game stretch.

Andover, 7-1 entering last night's game with East Boston, allowed six runs in its opener and only five in the next six games.

Post 8 produced the most successful season in its history last year, sweeping to 21 wins in a row before being ousted from the eight-team State Tournament with losses to New Bedford and Braintree.

Andover won the Zone 8A championship with a perfect 17-0 regular-season record in 1992, captured the District title by sweeping two best-of-3 series against Natick and Revere, and then exited from the double-elimination State tourney in Chicopee with the losses to New Bedford (5-2) and Braintree (6-5).

Many of the same New Bedford Legion players recently sparked that city's high school team to the State Division 1 championship, the same title Andover High owned in 1991 and '92.

Post 8 started 1993 quickly with victories over Gloucester (8-6), Middleton (6-1), Peabody (6-2), Lynn Gautreau Post 345 (5-0), Winthrop (9-0), Danvers (5-0) and Swampscott (3-2).

Salem snapped the lengthy win streak last Monday night with a come-from-behind 7-3 victory under the lights at Palmer's Cove.

Andover was scheduled to play visiting East Boston last night, and Post 8 has a key Zone 8A clash tonight at Methuen (6 p.m., Pelham Street Field).

Manager Joe Iarrobino's locals are then idle over the holiday weekend, resuming play next Wednesday when Lynn Post 6 comes to Andover for a 6 p.m. game.

Pitchers sharp

The pitching has been outstanding, with high school All-American Justin Hesenius and Matt Marvin firing complete-game shutouts while Gus Quattlebaum authored a rain-shortened five-inning no-hitter in his first mound appearance of the summer.

During a spectacular three-game, 19-inning stretch Andover pitchers surrendered just three hits while striking out 27.

Through the first seven games the Post 8 staff had combined to allow just 22 hits and 11 runs (all earned) in 47 innings, striking out 49 and walking 26 while compiling a sparkling 1.64 earned run average.

The Salem game elevated those statistics to 33 hits and 18 runs in 54 innings, with 53 strikeouts, 49 walks and a 2.33 ERA.

Post 8 had three starters batting over .300 after eight games.

Among the regulars Toby Guzowski was at .417 on 10-for-24, Brian Flanagan .333 on 7-for-21 and Matt Wolcott .313 on 5-for-16.

Injured Mike Sullivan was at .500 on 3-for-6, Jeff Lembo at .429 on 3-for-7 and Todd Murray .333 on 1-for-3.

Justin Hesenius led the team with nine RBI after eight games, Todd Harris and Toby Guzowski had six each, Brian Flanagan four, Mike Sullivan three and Matt Wolcott three.

Bob Daley has the only home run, while Guzowski and Hesenius boast a triple and double apiece. Alex Marshall has belted one triple, and other doubles have been stroked by Jeff Lembo, Brian Flanagan and Gus Quattlebaum.

On the mound Hesenius is 3-0 with a 1.11 ERA. In 19 innings he has allowed 10 hits and three earned runs while striking out 20 and walking six.

Matt Marvin is 2-0 with a 2.68 ERA. In 15.2 innings he has yielded eight hits and six earned runs while fanning 24 and walking 16.

Injury report

Center fielder-leadoff batter Mike Sullivan suffered a hamstring pull in his right leg the opening week of the season. He had been sidelined for two weeks and six games prior to last night.

"I can swing a bat with no problem but it still hurts when I run," explained the fleet-footed Sullivan earlier this week. "I just have to take it one day at a time and see how it feels."

On the encouraging side, pitcher-third baseman Gus Quattlebaum returned after minor surgery on his left shoulder made him unavailable for the first week.

Todd Murray pitched for the first time earlier this week (Salem). He has finally gotten the doctor's OK after recurring problems with his throwing arm throughout the spring and early summer.

Two Andover basketball teams play in Hoops for Hope

By Rick Harrison

Two Andover basketball teams opened play in the ambitious community-oriented Hoops for Hope, Inc. program last weekend.

Hoops for Hope, a non-profit organization, is the brainchild of former Andover resident, athlete and youth baseball coach Jim Arnold.

The program revolves around a project centered on the renovation of dilapidated Sullivan Park in Lawrence, a playground located off Rte. 114 between Shaw's Plaza and Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Arnold, a former Andover High football and basketball standout whose athletic career at the University of Lowell was cut short by injuries, has spearheaded a complete overhaul of the facility.

The past few weeks motorists driving past Sullivan Park, which is a mere three-point shot from the stadium projects in the eastern portion of South Lawrence, could see asphalt being poured for the construction of two new fully-lighted basketball courts.

Young people have been on the site daily cleaning and sprucing up the area.

Last Saturday, beginning at 10:30 a.m. and continuing until approximately 8 p.m., Arnold's dream became reality as the program came alive with six games involving 12 of the 15 teams in the Varsity Division.

The Andover entry slugged the Derry N.H. Astros 77-44 in its opener, was scheduled to play Haverhill the following day, and will battle Central Catholic tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The Andover team in the JV Division opened Monday night, also facing the Derry Astros, and played Central Catholic last night.

Early-round games will be played indoors at the Kane and Frost School gyms while the finishing touches are put on the outdoor courts.

Action in both divisions will continue through mid-August, with the Andover varsity playing 10 regular season games and the Juniors playing 11.

There will be playoffs in both divisions the second week of August, and the Varsity Division will have a 32-team Hoops for Hope Invitational the weekend of July 24-25.

Many youngsters who played for Andover High varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams last winter will participate.

Matt Gibson is one such player, and he pumped in 14 points in the opener against Derry.

Arnold persists

Arnold, who launched an unsuccessful journalistic crusade to refurbish Sullivan Park while working as a columnist for The Eagle-Tribune, would not give up on the project even after leaving the newspaper last year.

Enlisting the aid of his wife Beth, former Andover High and Harvard University basketball standout Carmen Scarpa and his wife Jean, and all-time University of Lowell basketball scoring leader John Paganetti, Arnold approached Lawrence DPW officials with an offer they couldn't refuse.

He promised to raise the money (an estimated $18,500) for the new courts if the DPW would fix up the playground portion of the park by repairing and replacing vandalized equipment, broken fencing and installing new sand.

The financial breakdown for the court installation included costs for paving, sealing, lining the courts, four basket poles and backboards, installation of the hoops, new basketballs, lights, electricity, spectator stands and a nightly police detail.

Funding was realized through both public and private contributions.

"The park is used by hundreds of neighborhood children and their families," Arnold notes in his Hoops For Hope literature. "Because many of these children have few other recreational options, Hoops for Hope has been founded to tackle this problem."

"High school basketball teams from throughout the Merrimack Valley will work to generate enthusiasm for the project by bringing their talents to a highly-competitive summer league," notes Arnold, who managed the 1988 Andover National Little League All-Stars to the World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

The basketball league is being used as the focal point to bring attention to the complete overhaul of the park.

In addition to Andover, other varsity division teams include Whittier of Haverhill, Masconomet (Topsfield), Central Catholic (Lawrence), North Andover, Greater Lawrence Regional, Chelmsford, Methuen, Lawrence, Salem N.H., two teams from Derry N.H., Pentucket (Byfield-West Newbury) and Lowell.

The junior varsity division includes eight teams from the same towns.

Because the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA) forbids high schools from paying for summer league basketball, all of the teams have raised money to cover operational costs on their own.

Hoops for Hope will have inner-city youth serve as scorekeepers, timekeepers, maintenance personnel and playground supervisors. They will be paid from a federally-subsidized Summer Youth Employment and Training Program.

Fazio co-runs clinic

A basketball clinic for children in the adjacent stadium projects will be supervised by Andover High boys varsity basketball coach Dave Fazio, a Lawrence native and Central Catholic grad, and Lawrence High varsity coach Dave Giribaldi.

In a recent Hoops for Hope article printed in the Boston Globe, Coach Fazio told reporter John Vellante:

"When he (Arnold) told me guys like Carmen Scarpa and John Paganetti were involved, I knew this would work. They're quality people and when they set their minds to do something, it gets done ...

"I run basketball camps for the project kids. It's important for me to give back something ... This will be a great experience for our kids to see some of the environment that surrounds them."

Arnold, who left the Eagle-Tribune after four years and works as a special needs teacher in Tewksbury, will enter Harvard Divinity School this fall.

His wife Beth, who earned her degree in biology at Rhode Island, her Masters in molecular biology at Boston University and her law degree at Northeastern, is patent counsel for a Cambridge biotech company developing cures for genetic diseases such as cystic fibrosis.

Carmen Scarpa is an investment banker

Mano, Jacobson are tops at Austin Prep

By Rick Harrison

Andover residents Mike Mano and Ryan Jacobson, a freshman and sophomore respectively at Austin Prep in Reading, finished the 1993 season as the top two players in almost every offensive category for the Cougars' varsity baseball team.

Mano, a first baseman and leadoff batter for Austin, hit .528 with 28 hits in 53 official at-bats.

The solid 5'9", 170-pound standout also had a .676 on-base percentage, three home runs, nine RBI, 19 runs scored, 14 stolen bases, seven walks, three sacrifices and the good contact hitter only struck out five times.

He led the Cougars in average, on-base percentage, stolen bases and runs scored.

"Mike's a very competitive athlete," said AP first-year Coach John Chiesa. "He had a number of outstanding games, including 11 multiple-hit games and a pair of 3-for-3 days."

"He has great anticipation as a baserunner. He takes a good lead, gets a quick jump, and is aggressive without being reckless."

Mike played in 18 of the 20 games, missing one while participating in a Walk For Hunger project, and hit safely in 16 games.

"I guess the most memorable moment Mike had this year was against Bishop Fenwick in Peabody, when he stole home with the winning run in the top of the seventh," recalled Coach Chiesa.

Ryan Jacobson, a sophomore who bats and throws lefty, hit cleanup most of the season for Austin and finished with 27 hits in 63 at-bats for a .429 average.

He had a .641 on-base percentage, three home runs, 23 RBI, 17 runs scored, five stolen bases, eight walks, three sacrifices and struck out just once.

Ryan led the Cougars in RBI, was second to Mano in average and on-base percentage, third in hits and third in runs scored.

The 6'2", 195-pounder was Austin's number one pitcher despite the fact his final record was a deceptive 2-5.

"Ryan pitched all the tough games for us," noted Coach Chiesa. "I put him up against the better teams on our schedule, and he lost a lot of tough decisions. He pitched against tournament qualifiers Matignon and Cardinal Spellman twice."

Jacobson's earned run average was a very respectable 3.10, and his victories came in the season-opener against St. Clement's of Somerville (11-4) and later against Fenwick (3-2).

He tossed a six-hitter against Spellman and lost, and three of his five setbacks were by one-run margins against Dom Savio (6-5) and Archbishop Williams twice (5-4 and 8-7).

Austin Prep, a member of the Catholic Central League Large School Division in baseball, completed the '93 season with an 8-12 overall record.

Jacobson also plays hockey and Mano may play football in the fall.

Teams play for Hoops for Hope

in Boston. He earned a degree in economics and a Masters in business administration at Harvard, and coordinates several special projects for the Joey Fund (cystic fibrosis).

Jean Scarpa, a home health care specialist, earned her marketing degree at Suffolk University and in 1992 was honored as Volunteer-of-the-Year by the Massachusetts chapter of cystic fibrosis.

John Paganetti, a principal engineer for a computer firm, earned his degree in computer science at ULowell. The Academic All-American was an assistant coach on ULowell's NCAA Division 2 national champion hoop team in 1988.

On days or nights when it rains the Hoops for Hope program will move inside to the Kane School, located less than a half-mile away. Part of the Hoops for Hope restoration project included resurfacing of the school's gymnasium floor.

Anyone wishing further information on the program may call (508) 685-6126.

Special Olympians compete at summer games

Denise Carriere and Dee Benjarian, both of Andover, participated in the volleyball competition of the 1993 Massachusetts Special Olympics Summer Games last weekend at Harvard University.

Denise, who has competed for 13 years, also won a gold medal in swimming and this year won three gold medals in local competitions.

Dee has won about 15 medals since she began competing eight years ago.

Cara Endyke earns Coach's Award for lacrosse

Cara E. Endyke of Andover received the Coach's Award for women's lacrosse at Governor Dummer Academy's spring sports awards banquet.

Pirates sponsor swim classes for kids

The Merrimack Valley Pirate swim team will sponsor a series of swim classes for children ages 5 through 11 who have shown an interest in competitive swimming but have not yet mastered the four strokes.

Emphasis will be on stroke mechanics, breathing patterns, body position and basic conditioning. All classes will be held at the Greater Lawrence Technical School pool at 57 River Road. Session I will be held Monday through Friday, June 28-July 9; Session II will be from July 12 to July 23. All classes meet from 3:45 to 4:30 p.m.

Call Linda Brown at 681-7740 to register.

The graduating senior is the daughter of Ann J. Endyke of Longwood Drive and John W. Endyke of North Andover. She will attend the University of Connecticut in September.

Karate for Kids™

7 weeks for $79
Including a FREE uniform valued at $30

Seven Week
Beginners Course
For Kids 5-13

WHY KARATE FOR KIDS?

Self-confidence — does not come naturally for many children, but rather it is developed over a period of time. As a child accomplishes new goals, his confidence level increases. Children become more self confident in karate because they progress individually at their own pace and are not judged against others.

Self defense — Children's self defense takes many forms. Many parents worry about their children being safe on the street yet one of the real problems concerns a child's ability to defend himself against other kids. Karate teaches children to think instead of panic in potentially serious situations as well as how to react to threats from other kids.

Every Child Wins — In karate every kid can be a winner instead of a bench sitter because karate allows children to reach for their own potential rather than directly compete against other kids.

Coordination — Karate challenges the entire body developing coordination, balance, agility and poise often neglected in many team sports available to children in this age group.

Fun — Karate lessons are a dynamic and challenging approach to the martial arts for children who are athletic, energetic, awkward or shy, bold, nice or maybe even a little wild once in a while... karate is probably for a kid just like yours.

Our pledge — We are dedicated to giving a child the most professional, well supervised and highest quality classes available in any sport anywhere!

Classes are taught at the N. Andover Knights Of Columbus, 505 Sutton St. No Andover Ma

Andover Gold registers three wins

By Rick Harrison

Andover Gold of the Suburban Pony League is off to a 3-2 start after its first five games of the 1993 season.

The victories have been registered against Medford 2 (16-8), Lynnfield (8-5) and Wilmington (26-6), while the losses came in the season-opener versus North Andover (9-4) and to defending league champ Methuen Police (13-10) in the most recent game.

Gold, coached by Dan Grams, Leo Gravell and Paul Salafia, is now prepping for the first of two regular season battles against intra-town archrival Andover Blue tomorrow night at Andover High (6 p.m.).

The AG roster includes 15-year-olds Brad Batchelder, Andy Henderson, Pat Sharkey, Dave Salafia, Jon Adams, Nicky Bilwakesh and Lou Capobianco, 14-year-olds Steve Vickers, Joe Maglio, Keith Grant, Pat Annese, Mark Tropeano, Mark O'Sullivan and Dan Gosselin, and 13-year-olds Doug Henderson, Randy Romano and Scott Ciruso.

North Andover, 9-4

The host team broke open a close 2-1 game with a five-run outburst in the bottom of the fourth at the North Andover Middle School field.

The Gold offense was sparked by Pat Sharkey, Dave Salafia and Brad Batchelder with two hits apiece, while Keith Grant added one safety.

Salafia, Jon Adams

and Steve Vickers collected one RBI each.

Dave Salafia worked the first four innings on the mound, yielding five hits and striking out seven.

Dan Gosselin finished up with two frames of strong relief, permitting a pair of unearned runs.

Lou Capobianco was a defensive standout in left field.

Andover Gold, 16-8

Pat Sharkey and Keith Grant had two hits apiece, both belting a two-run homer, and Mark O'Sullivan added a single and three-run triple to power AG past Medford 2 at Andover High.

Andy Henderson also contributed a pair of hits, while other safeties were laced by Brad Batchelder, Dan Gosselin and Lou Capobianco.

Gosselin and Pat Annese pitched three innings apiece in the darkness-shortened six-inning game, combining for a five-hitter and four strikeouts.

Defensively shortstop Mark Tropeano, second baseman Sharkey and first baseman Adams turned two crisp 6-4-3 double plays.

Andover Gold, 8-5

The locals erased a 5-3 deficit against Lynnfield with a clutch five-run rally in the bottom of the sixth at Andover High.

Righthander Dave Salafia was the winning pitcher with three strong innings of one-hit, three-strikeout relief.

Starter Brad Batchelder also pitched well for Gold, allowing four hits and fanning three in four innings.

Jon Adams struck the pivotal blow in the sixth, clearing the bases with a game-winning two-out, three-run triple.

Mark O'Sullivan added an RBI double in the big stanza, while other two-baggers were delivered by Andy Henderson and Mark Tropeano.

Tropeano opened the sixth with a double, Scott Ciruso walked,

Lou Capobianco singled to load the bases, and Andy Henderson was hit by a pitch to force in a run.

The next two batters struck out, and with Gold still trailing 5-4 Adams belted his decisive three-run triple.

Defensive standouts were second baseman Pat Sharkey and third baseman Mark O'Sullivan.

Gold turned another 6-4-3 double play in the seventh to kill Lynnfield's final hopes.

Andover's Steve Shepard excels on track and gridiron

By Rick Harrison

Bo Who?

Former dual professional sport standout Bo Jackson and current Atlanta Braves-Falcons rager Neon Deion Sanders have nothing on Andover High's Steve Shepard, who tore a page out of their book by excelling on the track and the gridiron recently.

Villanova's versatile investment may be offered his own television commercial soon, following an outrageous week of athletic endurance and accomplishment.

Shepard capped one of the more spectacular careers in Andover High sports annals by winning the two-day North Division Decathlon championship at Masconomet Regional in Topsfield, and less than 72 hours later getting the winning team off on the right foot by scoring the first touchdown in a 22-21 North All-Stars victory over the South at the annual Shriners' Football Classic at Boston University Nickerson Field.

Shepard's athletic odyssey began with a come-from-behind victory over state triple jump champion Ray Jones of Cohasset High in the North Decathlon, as those two turned a 50-man competition into a personal head-to-head duel.

Shepard can actually claim the Eastern Mass. Decathlon title, because his winning point total of 6,225 points was almost 600 points better than the South Sectional champion's total.

Shepard, however, finished just 16 points ahead of Jones as the pair waged a seesaw battle that saw the lead change hands several times over the course of 10 events and 48 hours.

Third place finisher Trey Gullede of Acton-Boxboro would have won the title in other years, but his 6,116 points were more than 100 behind Shepard.

After the first five events Jones held a slim lead, and at one juncture in the competition Jones was ahead by 169 points.

Things swung in Shepard's favor when he unleashed a 141-foot javelin toss, beating Jones by 40 feet and taking the lead by 31 points.

The Andover decathlete carried that advantage into the arduous final event, the 1,500 meter run, and although Jones beat Shepard by slightly more than two seconds it wasn't enough.

Shepard's other gold medal performances included a 15.3 clocking in the 110-meter high hurdles, a 50.9 time in the 400 meter dash and a 42.9" leap in the triple jump.

Shepard, who placed third in the North Decathlon as a junior with 6,208 points, had trouble in the shot put where his 33'3" toss constituted a minor setback.

In the Shriners' Football Classic, Shepard shifted gears and made a diving catch of a 15-yard touchdown pass in the end zone for the North All-Stars first six points.

Shepard had an outstanding senior year in football at Andover High, scoring 86 points and rushing for over 1,000 yards last fall.

In his high school career he scored 20 touchdowns, 16 on the ground and four on pass receptions, totaled 124 points and produced close to 2,000 all-purpose yards.

In track, Shepard was the Eastern Mass. Class B 300-meter intermediate hurdles champ as a junior, later placing second in the All-State Meet and fifth in the New Englands.

He was also a member of Andover's spectacular 4x100 meter sprint relay team that won Class B and All-State titles before placing second at the New England Meet in 1992.

This spring, as a senior, Shepard won the Eastern Mass. Class B triple jump, placed third in the 300 hurdles and was a member of the Golden Warriors Class B champion 4x400 meter relay team.

At the All-State Meet he finished third in the 300 hurdles, fourth in the triple jump and ran a leg on the fifth-place 4x400 crew.

The relay team also scored in the New England Meet.

T. D. Waffle

T. D. Waffle is a great new family restaurant located on Old Main Street (Route 38) in Tewksbury. Owners Dave Donovan and Tom Seto have based this restaurant on the waffle house restaurants of the South. T. D. Waffle offers a comfortable, casual atmosphere with courteous, friendly service. All food orders are made from scratch from the finest ingredients, and they are prepared in front of you on the wide open grill. The restaurant has a bright and cheerful interior, and offers both counter and booth seating.

T. D. Waffle serves breakfast all day long. Whether your choice is the $1.99 Breakfast Special of 2 eggs, potatoes, baked beans and toast or one of the selections of delicious waffles, you can get a great breakfast here. Some of the waffle choices include the Fresh Fruit Waffle, which is covered with canteeloup, strawberries, bananas and kiwi; the peaches and cream waffle; and the pecan waffle. On Saturdays and Sundays, free coffee is served while you wait.

Lunch time brings a wide choice of dishes again. Each day there are luncheon specials, and they always offer a selection of hot open faced sandwiches, club sandwiches and meal platters such as veal parmesan.

Dinner at T. D. Waffle brings to mind Mom's home cooking, with such great homestyle meals as Ham and Scalloped Potatoes, Meat Loaf, Shepherd's Pie and a Turkey Dinner made with fresh turkey.

Bringing the family here for a great tasting and reasonable priced dinner makes going out to dinner so easy. Everyone can find something they like on the menu, and the full menu is available all day.

Next time you are in the mood for a casual, but delicious meal, come to T. D. Waffle, and bring the whole family.

T. D. Waffle is located at 283 Old Main Street in Tewksbury, right off Rt. 495 on Rt. 38 East. The restaurant is open Sunday through Thursday 5:30 am to 9 pm, and Friday and Saturday 5:30 am to 10 pm. Telephone: 508/640-9610 or 640-0159.

SPORTSTALK

By Rick Harrison

Jim Hanning, Andover High's first baseball All-American and Massachusetts Gatorade Division 1 Player-of-the-Year last spring, is home from the University of Maine-Orono for the summer and is itching to get back on the diamond.

The lefty pitcher, who was undefeated as a junior and senior for AHS' back-to-back State championship teams and literally untouchable last year in both high school and Legion ball, had surgery on his throwing elbow several months ago following a strong fall campaign (intrasquad) with the perennially-powerful Black Bears.

He was projected as UMaine's No. 3 or 4 starter for the spring before the arm problem.

He was diagnosed with a single bone chip in the left elbow, and the operation to remove it was performed by Boston Red Sox team physician Dr. Arthur Papas.

Hanning missed the entire spring season as a medical red-shirt.

The UMaine sophomore-to-be lent moral support to several of his former teammates by attending several Andover High late-season and tournament games in late May and early June, his valuable left arm wrapped in a sling.

The sling is now history, but a six-inch scar that runs from mid-forearm to mid-tricep is a very visible reminder.

"They're still not sure exactly what caused the problem," said Jim recently. "It may not even be baseball-related. I could have done it just by banging my elbow into something."

"I feel good now and I can use the arm to shoot baskets, or when I go swimming. But I can't do any heavy lifting."

The former Andover High franchise player, who wears glasses on occasion these days instead of contact lenses, had hoped to work with his father this summer building sea walls and doing other similar construction projects.

"That's what I wanted to do, but about all I could handle right now is a register job," he admitted with a smile.

His father has recently been working out of state in Wisconsin, and may even be sent to Bombay, India on a future assignment.

"They (doctors) are pretty confident I'll be able to start throwing again late in the summer or early fall."

Jim will follow his therapy regimen and take things slowly, the most important thing to be ready for next spring.

As a medical red-shirt Jim still has four years college eligibility left, and he plans to stay at UMaine.

"The only thing that might change my plans is getting drafted (by the pros, not the armed services), but that can't happen until I'm a junior or senior."

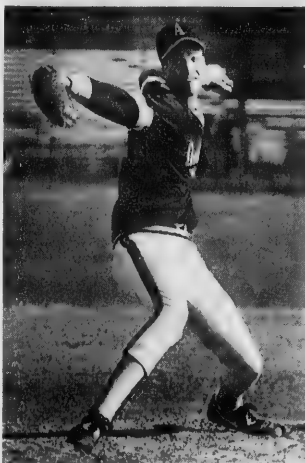

He is a business major at UMaine.

Bill Batchelder is having another fine season as a reliever/spot starter for the Lowell Sun Braves of the Eastern Bay State Baseball League.

Batchelder, who recently completed his first year with the University of New Hampshire Wildcats, coached by former Andover High skipper Dave Betten-court, was 4-0 with three saves for the Braves through action last weekend.

The 6'2" righthander, with a sharp fastball and nasty curve, has thrown a pair of complete-game victories against the Acton A's.

Jim Hanning

Lowell is currently embroiled in a three-way battle for first place in the league with the Natick Elks and Concord-Cambridge, and was 21-8 overall entering this week's action.

The Braves will host their own holiday weekend tournament, the Dave Boutin-Charlie Steiner Memorial, beginning tonight when they host the Chelmsford Merchants at Alumni Field in Lowell.

Batchelder, who started his collegiate career at Creighton before shifting to UMaine briefly and then UNH, won several games for the Braves last summer.

His cousin Rob Carpentier, formerly of Andover and now a pitcher in the New York Mets minor league system, also played for the Braves.

The Lowell roster includes several ex-pro players including lefty pitcher Joe Grygiel and player-manager Dick Kiluk. Grygiel was a member of the San Diego Padres farm system and Kiluk spent a year in the Pittsburgh Pirates program before suffering injuries to both knees.

***

Several members of the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School champion Andover High boys and girls spring track teams have been selected to the 1993 league All-Conference and All-Star teams.

Leading the way on the girls side is New England and Eastern Mass. Class B 100-meter high hurdles champion Stacey Lavoie, a junior who was also the All-State runnerup.

Miss Lavoie was the only athlete from the Greater Lawrence area to win a New England title this year.

Joining Miss Lavoie on the MVC All-Conference squad are sophomore Jamie Barron, who was named first team in both the long jump and 100-meter dash, and senior Kerry Hagerty in the javelin.

Senior Steve Shepard was also chosen MVC All-Conference in two events, the triple jump and 200 meter dash.

Other Golden Warriors on the elite squad are senior miler Brian Twomey, junior 110-meter high hurdler Dave Jorgenson and senior 300-meter intermediate hurdler Jon Cirella.

Andover girls on the MVC Large School All-Star squad are sophomore Rebecca Goldenberg in the long jump, sophomore Eveline Yang in the triple jump, senior Ellen Sullivan in the twomile, sophomore Amy Levesque in the 200 meter dash, junior Sarah Witman in the 400-meter dash, junior Christine Donovan in the 100-meter hurdles, and the 4x100 meter sprint relay foursome of freshman Randi Spiegel, Levesque, Baron and Lavoie.

AHS boys picked as Large School All-Stars are sophomore Brian Marshall in the long jump, senior Jon Hess in the triple jump, senior J.P. Ciruso in the shot put and the 4x400 meter relay quartet of senior Colin Arsenaault, sophomore Matt Ely, Shepard and Cirella.

***

Ned Yetten Jr. of Andover registered a hole-in-one on the 119-yard sixth hole at Indian Ridge Country Club recently.

Young Ned was playing with his father, Ned Sr., and Jim Holbrook Sr. and Jr. in a club tournament.

***

Indian Ridge pro Joe Miller also reported the club has held its qualifying for the annual Greater Lawrence Rogers Golf Tournament, scheduled for 72 holes medal play July 15-18.

IRCC's 12-man team includes three seeded players, defending Rogers champion George Popp, Red Harris who earned his exemption by finishing in the top 10 last summer, and reigning Club Champ Jim Montiegel.

Chelmsford native Popp last week finished tied for fifth in the 68th annual 54-hole Lowell City Tournament, the downriver equivalent to the Rogers.

Those three will be joined by Jim Holbrook, who shot 77-72-149 over 36 holes as the qualifying medalist, University of Massachusetts-Lowell sophomore Matt Harris (75-78-153), Ed Griffin (77-77-154), Steve Fournier (76-79-155), Colin Ahern (76-80-156), Brad Koffman (80-76-156), former Rogers champ Walter Sharis (81-76-157) and Jim Oppenheim (78-80-158).

The four alternates are Ned Yetten Sr. (83-78-161), Len McCormack (162), Fran Sullivan Jr. (162) and John Gilmartin (162).

Indian Ridge, the two-time defending Rogers team champ, will host the final round of this year's tourney on Sunday, June 18.

"We also have two weddings booked for that same day, so this place is really going to be a zoo," laughed Miller, a former two-time Lowell City Tournament champion. "The cars will be parked all the way back to Shawsheen Square."

IRCC will host a July 4 Scotch Foursome on Sunday, and precedes the Rogers with its annual three-day Member-Guest Tournament July 9-11.

The Indian Ridge Men's Club Championship is scheduled for later this summer, 72 holes medal play Aug. 7, 8, 14 and 15.

Miller and buddies Jim Logue and Brendan Sheehy enjoyed a little off-the-links fun earlier this week, participating in the Eastern Mass. Hockey Officials hockey game on Cape Cod.

***

Mizuno All-American Justin Hesenius was selected for the North squad in the 16th annual Eastern Mass. High School All-Star Baseball Game played recently at Morelli Field in Melrose. That presented an interesting dilemma for Justin, because the EMass. game was in direct conflict with an Andover Legion game at Winthrop.

The Massachusetts Gatorade and State Division 1 Player-of-the-Year, who had pitched against Lynn in a Legion game the previous day and would have been unavailable to throw in the All-Star Game, opted to play with the Legion.

The North beat the South All-Stars 3-1 in the game, which was played in a steady rain (there was no rain date).

"I understand Justin's decision and I'm just sorry I didn't get a chance to see him play," said North co-coach Armand Sabourin of Bedford. "I've heard a lot about him, of course, and was interested to see him in action."

***

Chris Hall earned his first varsity letter from Muhlenberg College in track. He qualified for the MAC championships in the 100, 200, long jump, and 4x400 relay team. In the conference finals he placed fifth in the 100 meter dash (11.34) and 13th in the long jump (19' 8"). He was also part of the 4x400 relay team that established a school record at 3:26.64.

Leo J. Couture & Sons

Hot weather driving puts added stress on your car's cooling system and air conditioning system, so now is the time to bring your car in to Leo J. Couture & Sons to put those systems in top running condition. A trip to Couture's can keep you from getting stuck at the side of the highway with radiator problems. The technicians at Couture's are experts at the repair and maintenance of these problems, as well as gas tank, heater, leaking and worn hoses, clogging and corrosion. They can also do minor mechanical repairs including g brake, exhaust, oil changes, and the steam cleaning of engines.

Radiator repair is a specialty at Leo J. Couture & Sons. They can rebuild, repair or recore your existing radiator; and replacement radiators, both new and used are also available. Couture's will help you to save money on these repairs, and they offer a guarantee on their work.

Leo J. Couture & Sons also offers expert air conditioning system service. Their certified technicians use the latest DFD Recycling equipment, as required by law, when recharging your air-conditioning unit. While recharging the system, Couture's technicians will also check for any leaks or other problems in the system. Twenty-four hour towing service is also provided by Leo J. Couture & Sons. They will pay cash for junk cars, and use those cars for the inventory for their junk yard. Junked cars will be picked up at your door.

Until July 30th, bring in this ad to receive $10 off on air conditioning service.

Leo J. Couture & Sons is located at 54 Medford Street, Lawrence, just behind the Essex Street Plaza DeMoulas. Hours: Monday through Friday 7 am to 5 pm and Saturday 8-12. Telephone: 508/687-9527. Towing Service Telephone: 508/686-5884.

OUR EXPERIENCE!

Chestnut Street residents upset by tree trimmings

The Davidsons say what they consider trimming, and what was done to their pines are two different things. According to Ms. Davidson, who called the Townsmen last week, the workers did more than just trim near the wires. She said they cut off so many branches, even those well below the wires, that it "looks like a nuclear bomb went off" in her yard.

Massachusetts Electric arborist Guy Shepard said last Thursday he wasn't aware of any complaints regarding work in the Chestnut Street neighborhood. Tree crews from Asplundh, a national chain hired by the utility company, have been in Andover since the first of this year, he said. The crews are trimming trees near electric wires and will continue working in town until December.

Mr. Shepard said the last time crews were in Andover was four years ago and it will probably be another four years before they are here again. He said workers have to cut well below wires if the trees grow fast.

As of last Thursday, Mr. Shepard said he had received only one "minor" complaint, from a man in West Andover who wanted to supervise the tree crew's work.

This week, Mr. Shepard told the Townsmen that a neighbor of the Davidsons called him to complain about the work done at the Davidsons' property, and to stress that he didn't want any of his trees trimmed.

Mr. Shepard said he then went to

Ellen Davidson of 140 Chestnut St. points out the spot where trees along her property line were cut too much.

Chestnut Street to inspect the pine trees and that he later spoke with Mr. Davidson.

"I told him that the cuts on the bottom of the tree, the ones that he was complaining about, looked a lot older than the cuts at the top of the tree," said Mr. Shepard.

"The maple trees were like a shrub and acted as a screen," hiding most of the cuts on the bottom, he added. "That's when (Mr. Davidson) told me that several months ago he gave a neighbor permission to cut some branches that were blocking the neighbor's view when pulling out of the driveway."

Mr. Shepard said he is satisfied with the work done by the Asplundh crew and he's convinced the workers did not make the cuts that the Davidsons complained about.

"Even though we didn't do anything that we shouldn't have done, or do the damage that they thought we did, I've offered to plant some lilacs or Forsythia bushes in place of the maples and to paint the cuts black so they'll be less noticeable," said Mr. Shepard.

Ms. Davidson said she and her husband are still "mourning" the loss of the branches.

"It's very possible that when the maple trees were removed that it looked much worse," said Ms. Davidson.

She said that she and her husband are not completely convinced that the tree crews had to cut off so many branches on the top of the trees, or that they didn't cut off some of the lower branches as well.

She said Mr. Shepard is "bending over backwards to make a bad situation better. We just want people to know that if they care about their trees, they should discuss the work with the crews and come to an understanding about what work will be done, and that they should keep track of the work that is being done," she said.

Mr. Shepard said he is a bit "disturbed" at how the situation came to his attention, but that he is willing to work with the couple to the best of his ability.

The Davidsons "didn't come to us and give us a chance to respond. They called the newspaper and then a neighbor introduced us," he said.

If residents have questions about the work that the tree crews have done, or are requesting permission to do, Mr. Shepard suggests they call him at Massachusetts Electric's local office.

FOURTH OF JULY FESTIVITIES

Activities in Andover and other communities, and summer-time tips • July 1, 1993

ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Andover celebrates the Fourth on the fifth

The town of Andover will celebrate the Fourth of July on Monday, July 5.

A pancake breakfast will be served in Central Park from 8 to 11 a.m. It costs $2.50 per person.

Entertainment will be provided from 8 to 11 a.m. There will be an organ grinder, clowns, stilt walker and juggler.

The Department of Community Services will hold games for children from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m. in The Park.

The annual Horribles Parade will form at 9 a.m. on Bartlet Street and kicks off at 9:30 a.m. Awards will be given for bikes, costumes, disguises, dogs, groups, etc.

The parade route will follow Bartlet Street to Punchard Avenue to Main Street to Park Street to Whittier Street into The Park.

The Middlesex Concert Band will perform in The Park near the bandstand from 10 a.m. to noon - don't forget to bring a blanket or chair.

The fireworks display will begin at dusk at Andover High School.

For more information call 475-7147 or 475-8669.

What's open; what's closed

Town offices will be closed Monday, July 5, because that is the day the town will hold its July 4 celebration and fireworks.

Liquor stores will be closed Sunday, July 4, and open Monday, July 5. Some banks will be closed Saturday, July 3, and Monday, July 5, so customers are advised to check with their own bank. Most grocery stores will open regular hours July 4 and 5.

Memorial Hall Library is closed Monday, July 5.

Many downtown stores will be open Monday, July 5.

Post offices are closed Monday, July 5. Rubbish will not be picked up by the town Monday, July 5, so all rubbish pickup the week of July 5 is delayed by one day.

10,000 people suffer serious injuries due to fireworks each year

Physicians at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston are reminding people to make eye safety a priority if they are going to use fireworks to celebrate America's independence.

"Fireworks are capable of producing the worst type of eye injuries because they burn at such a high temperature and travel at such high rates of speed," says Samuel Navon, M.D., Ph.D., director of the infirmary's eye trauma service. "Almost all types of fireworks produce fast-moving, blunt objects. Not only is their direction unpredictable and inaccurate, but most fireworks travel much too fast for people to move out of the way."

Each year, 10,000 people in the United States suffer serious fireworks-related injuries, especially around the Fourth of July. Dr. Navon notes that an estimated 1,300 of those injuries are serious eye injuries. One third of these eye injury cases results in permanent blindness in one eye.

Bottle rockets are a major cause of fireworks-related eye injuries and nearly all the serious eye injuries are caused by them. However, other fireworks can rupture, burn, cut, scrape and severely bruise the eye, as well as the lids, areas surrounding the eye and the face. Dr. Navon says that even sparklers are dangerous as they emit flying particles that burn at temperatures up to 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit.

According to the American Academy of Ophthalmology, the typical firework-related eye injury victim is a male, 13-15 years of age, who was playing with a bottle rocket without adult supervision. The injury tends to cause severe eye damage, possibly resulting in permanent vision loss, and may require immediate surgical treatment.

Dr. Navon offers the following medical tips if an eye injury does occur.

- Do not try to remove any protruding objects from the eye.
- Flush the eye with water to remove any particles that are present.
- Cover the eye loosely for comfort and seek immediate medical attention.

"It is important that parents understand the dangers that fireworks pose to their children," says Dr. Navon. "One night of entertainment is not worth risking a lifetime of blindness. The safest way for people to enjoy fireworks this Fourth of July is to watch a community-sponsored display."

Sunglasses provide protection

Selecting sunglasses wisely is more than an issue of style considerations. The smart buyer will focus on the comfort factor, but will be smarter still when considering basic eye protection.

Recent health studies have underscored the damaging results of ultraviolet light on skin and eyes. Manufacturers have responded with new products that provide UV protection. However, consumer misconceptions abound.

Dr. Jack Weber, director of research and development at Marchon Eyewear, has identified three of the most commonly held beliefs related to sunglass selection:

True or false?

1. "The darker the sunglass lens, the more they will protect your eyes."

This statement is incorrect. The primary purpose for choosing lighter or a darker sunglass lens is for eye comfort. When protection is the issue, one must discuss degrees of ultraviolet light absorption, not darkness or lightness of sunglass lenses. It's entirely possible, for example, to have a pair of sunglasses that boasts a very high level of UV protection even though the lens may be very light. UV inhibitors protect your eyes; the lightness or darkness of sunglass lenses do not.

2. "If you can see your eyes, your sunglasses are not dark enough." This statement is false. Unless dark-lens sunglasses have UV protection, they are downright dangerous. A person may mistakenly buy sunglasses with very dark lenses but without any UV protection, believing that dark lenses alone provide sufficient protection. They don't. In fact, Marchon tells us that "Unprotected dark lenses are a double disaster. Dark lenses send a message to the pupil of the eye to admit more light; in response, the pupil enlarges to do just that. Now not only is the unfiltered light absorbed by the eye, in the long-term, it could well be a source of injury."

3. "Whether your eyes are light or dark, the amount of protection they need is the same." This is another variation of the protection vs. comfort distinction. For protection, sunglasses must have UV inhibitors, whether your eyes are light or dark. For comfort, light eyes are going to feel better in darker lenses. Dark eyes will do fine in medium to light lenses. Dark eyes have more pigment in them which helps to absorb brightness. Light eyes have less pigment and are more sensitive to light. Thus, lightness or darkness of your natural eye color does affect your choice of lighter or darker sunglass lenses.

The experts at Marchon Eyewear suggest that it may be helpful to think of opposites - dark-lens sunglasses for light eyed people and vice versa - that's the comfort rule. The protection rule is to look for broad spectrum, UVA and UVB protective sunglasses.

Finally, sunglasses that screen UVA and UVB rays provide the best-known health protection for eyes. And since these rays are present on sunny and cloudy days all year-round, Dr. Weber suggests wearing sunglasses whenever you're out of doors.

How to get the most out of a gallon of gasoline

Motorists can get the most out of each gallon of gas by following a few simple conservation and maintenance measures. The following tips are presented by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), a non-profit group that certifies the competence of automotive technicians.

Monitor tire pressure.

Under-inflation wastes fuel and shortens the tires' life. Consult owner's manual for the recommended pressures. (Do-it-yourselfers, do not check the pressure when the tires are still warm from driving; let them cool down first.) Out-of-line wheels also waste fuel and shorten the tires' life. An alignment is needed if there's uneven tread wear or if the vehicle "pulls" on a flat road.

Remove excess weight.

Remove unnecessary items from the vehicle. Store only essentials in the trunk. Less weight means better mileage.

Plan trips and errands.

Look at your schedule and activities and try to consolidate your daily errands. Some trips may be unnecessary. Also, try to travel when traffic is light so you can avoid stop-and-go conditions.

Avoid excessive idling.

Shut off the engine while waiting for friends and family.

Use windows and air conditioning

wisely.

Due to air resistance, your mileage should improve if you keep the windows closed at highway speeds. This is true even with the air conditioning on, assuming that the air conditioning system is in good condition. In stop-and-go traffic, turning the air conditioning off saves fuel.

Observe speed limits.

Drive gently.

Avoid sudden accelerations and jerky stop-and-gos. Anticipate traffic patterns ahead and adjust your speed gradually. The brakes should last longer, too.

Keep your engine tuned up.

A well-maintained engine operates more efficiently and will get better gas mileage. Follow the service schedules listed in the owner's manual. Replace filters and fluids as recommended; have engine performance problems (rough idling, poor acceleration, etc.) corrected at a repair facility. Given today's high-tech engines, it's wise to have this type of work done by auto technicians who are ASE certified in engine performance.

The benefits of conservation and maintenance are two-fold: In addition to saving fossil fuels, drivers can extend the life of the vehicle and its parts.

Six to 8 glasses of water a day keep the body functioning properly

Water. Next to the air we breathe no other element is more crucial to our survival. We can live a month without solid food, but only a few days without water. Every single cell in our bodies depends on water for its existence and practically every bodily function requires water in order to operate efficiently and effectively.

Normal functions such as excretion, perspiration and breathing cause the body to lose 1.5 to 3 quarts of water each day (hot temperatures and heavy physical activity increase water loss). Drinking six to eight glasses of water daily replenishes this lost fluid and keeps the body working properly. No other liquid replaces what pure water does for the body. (Caffeine-containing beverages such as coffee, tea or colas, as well as alcoholic beverages, actually accelerate fluid loss.)

Today, many health-conscious consumers have turned to bottled water for their daily drinking water. Ordinary tap water has been declared unsafe in many localities as a result of ground water contamination, acid rain and various other pollutants. The latest concern of the Environmental Protection Agency is that some 42 million homes may have dangerous levels of lead in their tap water as a result of leaded pipes in home or public water systems. Too much lead in the body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system and red blood cells.

The NAYA Water Advisory Center is offering a new leaflet, "The Importance of Drinking Water," which explains how vital water is to overall good health. It's available free of charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to: NAYA Water Advisory Center, Box D, 928 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10010.

Tips for exercising in warm weather

Here come cool ideas for warm weather workouts:

- Even though the weather's warm, don't neglect your warm up. Muscles still need to stretch before they're subjected to strenuous exercise.

- If the temperature really starts to soar, you might want to forego a grueling jog in favor of an invigorating swim. If you do run, aerobicize, play tennis or engage in some other sport that really works up a sweat, don't forget to take regular breaks and drink plenty of fluids.

- After your workout, always cool down with stretches and deep breathing exercises. You may want to take a sauna or a steam if you're at the gym. It's also a good idea to replenish body fluids with water or fruit juices.

Taking the Pumps Pond plunge

Ned Jackson sends his godchild, Kate Denison, for a plunge into Pumps Pond. Pumps Pond is now open for the season. Stickers for residents' car windows cost $20 for two years. If a family wishes to buy a sticker for a second car, that cost is $4. No stickers will be sold for one year. Stickers are for sale at the pond itself. A person must show his or her license to purchase a sticker.

Barbecuing can be healthy alternative to indoor cooking

The mouthwatering scents of charcoal-broiled foods wafting through the warm air is a sure sign that the season is well under way. Outdoor grilling, a traditional American summer pastime, enhances the freedom and relaxation of the season.

"While barbecuing is a wonderful excuse to spend time outside after a long day, it can also be a healthy alternative to indoor cooking methods that require extra oil or butter," says Gail L. Becker, registered dietitian. "The first step in lowering your risk of some forms of cancer or heart disease is by reducing your intake of dietary fat."

For a healthier barbecue, Ms. Becker recommends removing all excess fat from meats, which will drip onto the hot coals and create smoke. This smoke rises to the surface of the grill and chars the food, which has been linked as a possible cancer risk according to some studies.

To decrease this occurrence and ensure safer grilling without sacrificing flavor or juiciness, replace an excess of fat with a rich-tasting, cholesterol free alternative. For safer successful grilling every time, consider these tips:

- Reduce cooking time on the grill by precooking foods in the microwave or oven. Drain any excess juices, which contain fat, off meats before barbecuing.

- Minimize contact with heavy smoke by wrapping food in foil or cover the grill grid with foil and punch several holes.

- To catch excess fat dripping from poultry and meats, move the coals to the sides of the grill and position an aluminum pan underneath the food.

- To prevent drying out, baste foods frequently with lowfat or nonfat marinades and barbecue sauces or a butter alternative.

- To avoid charring or overcooking foods, dampen charcoal and shift the food around the grill. Remove any fatty skin and charred areas before eating.

- Select poultry, seafood and lowfat cuts of meat; always read labels carefully.

- As a refreshingly light alternative, skewer and grill chunks of corn on the cob, potatoes, zucchini, yellow squash, green and red peppers, onions, eggplant, firm tofu, pineapple, mushrooms, cherry tomatoes and other seasonal fruits and vegetables.

The Cooking For The Health Of It recipe book features several recipes for grilling with Butter Buds, including Teriyaki Beef Kabobs, Lemon Barbecued Chicken and the following recipe for Corn on the Cob in the Husk. To order a copy, send $5.95 to Cumberland Packing Corporation, 2 Cumberland Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11205.

For more information on lowfat eating, call the Butter Buds Hotline, 1-800-231-1123 Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Corn on the cob in the husk

4 unhusked ears of corn
1 packet Butter Buds Mix, liquefied
1/4 tsp. garlic salt or powder
Pull back corn husks to remove silk.

Combine Butter Buds and garlic salt or powder and brush evenly over each ear of corn. Pull husks back over cob. Grill 20 to 30 minutes, three to four inches from coals, turning several times.

Remove husks and brush again with Butter Buds sauce. Serve remaining sauce with corn.
